Nine More Supply Ships Of Axis Are Sunk By British

Hitler Exerting Every Effort To Build Up Defense For Tunisia

LONDON, Nov. 28.—(AP)—Nine more axis supply ships, including a tank carrier, have been sunk in the Mediterranean by British submarines fighting attempts to rush men and provisions to German and Italian troops now forced back within 15 miles of Tunis.

Announcement of this destruction of axis ships and supplies urgently needed by the Nazi defenders of Tunis and Bizerte came from the British admiralty at the same time that enemy sources described the mounting scale of the allied assault on the North African siege ports.

To the west of the battle scene radio Morocco reported "enormous quantities" of men and materials were being disembarked at Casablanca.

In addition to the nine cargo vessels sunk, the British reported they had damaged three other supply ships and an Italian destroyer of the Trione class that was escorting the relief convoy. The date of the sinkings was not given.

Among the ships sunk was a large twin-funnelled passenger liner which was intercepted off the coast of Sicily. Another was a small tanker laden with benzine. A second tanker which previously had been damaged by aircraft was found burning and was sunk by torpedoes, the admiralty said.

The tank-landing craft, of medium size, might have been trying to reinforce Marshal Erwin Rommel's Africa corps at El Agheila. It was torpedoed off the coast of North Africa near Tripoli and burned for 24 hours before sinking. Others of the sunken ships were loaded with food stores.

Interception and destruction of the large supply fleet left no doubt that Hitler was exerting every effort to build a formidable defense in Tunisia against Lieut.-General K. A. N. Anderson's powerful British first army rolling in from the west.

Block Counter Thrust

While allied headquarters did not support the announcement from enemy sources that the main allied assault was under way, an American communique reported a

December Call Reaches 120

The call for men from Pettis County for the month of December has already reached 120, a call being received Friday for 70, fifty white men and twenty Negroes. December's call it is believed by the local board will be the largest yet, in accordance with a "warning notice" received several days ago. The largest call to date was for 286 men.

Fifty white men will leave Sedalia on December 10, fifty more white men leave on December 22, while a call for twenty-Negroes called for induction on December 12.

All three groups will report to Fort Leavenworth for further physical examination and induction.

Practically all of those called in the three groups will be married men, with the exception of a few whose deferments have run out. Men answering other calls for December will also be made up of a majority of married men who have been reclassified to 1-A.

The call for men 18 and 19 years old will not be for induction until around January 1. However a call for men in this age group will be sent out for physical examinations to report for such examinations on Tuesday December 8.

Major Schimmel Will Be Guest Speaker At Rotary Monday Noon

Major John Schimmel III, of Sedalia Army Air Field, will be the guest speaker at the noonday luncheon of the Rotary club at the Bothwell hotel Monday. Emile Landmann is program chairman.

In Naval Reserve

Dr. G. H. Abney, Sedalia dentist, commissioned a Lieutenant in the U. S. Naval Reserve, is stationed at Farragut, Idaho. Mrs. Abney and their young daughter remained temporarily in Sedalia and will join him later.

Blackout In Sedalia And Pettis County

Announcement Made It Will Be Held Night Of Dec. 14

Sedalia and Pettis county will have a trial blackout from 10:00 to 10:20 o'clock on the night of Monday, December 14, according to announcement made by Julian H. Bagby, chairman of the Pettis County Council of Defense. Instructions for Pettis county to join other counties, in other states in the seventh corps area, were received by Mr. Bagby from Hugh Stephens, chairman of the state Council of Defense, and he is complying with instructions from the army.

The proposed blackout will afford an opportunity to mobilize OCD protective services, coordinate control centers and otherwise test essential functions of all groups of civilian defense corps. This participation will be to such degree as may be deemed prudent and the state of training the respective groups may permit and the safety and well being of the citizens of the respective communities may demand.

Duties Of Volunteers

Air raid wardens, fire watchers and other block and district personnel will render effective service by cautioning householders and others of blackout provisions and seeking their voluntary cooperation with the spirit and seriousness of the exercise, leading to perfection in subsequent tests.

A report of violations and failure of citizens to cooperate will be made to the headquarters of the respective services in order that the OCD office may serve violators with proper notice and request for cooperation in future tests. Suitable blackout legislation is being passed in order that blackout requirements may be enforced.

"The importance of the blackout test can not be over-estimated" stated Mr. Bagby. "It is a test not only of the efficiency of our Civilian Defense forces, but also a test of the spirit of our citizens, which will be evidenced by their willingness to cooperate and abide by the law, rules, and regulations that have been enacted. The Council expects 100% coperation."

Instructions as to procedure and participation by each local citizen will be announced daily through the news paper, beginning Monday, November 30th.

Whether or not Pettis Countians will be able to protect themselves, should the need arise, will be determined by the effort each citizen puts forth in making this trial blackout a successful one.

Hundred And Fifty Die In Fire

Two Hundred Or More Injured At Boston Night Club

BOSTON, Nov. 28—(AP)—A swift moving fire of undetermined origin flashed among Saturday night merry-makers in the Cocoanut Grove night club in the Back Bay district and caused deaths which Police Supt. Edward W. Fallon estimated early today probably would reach 150.

Two hundred or more were injured, and Dr. James Manary of city hospital, which reported 150 admitted, said deaths were occurring so rapidly they could not be counted immediately.

Flames burst in the melody room, a basement lounge, just as the orchestra was preparing to play the Star Spangled Banner for the opening of the floor show.

Jump To Street

Mickey Alpert, orchestra leader, said he was sitting at a table on the main floor, and "was holding up my baton for the national anthem when the flames roared up from the lounge below."

Eyewitnesses told of patrons in the flaming one-and-half story club making their way to the roof and jumping to the street, many landing on top of parked automobiles.

All branches of servicemen pitched in with police and firemen in removing the bodies from the twisted wreckage. One by one the victims were carried to the street as voices shouted: "Gangway. Here's another body."

They were carried in almost a steady stream across the mesh of fire hoses that littered the streets and placed under gray blankets in a garage across the street which was employed as a makeshift morgue.

Shoeless feet could be seen protruding from the blankets as the lifeless forms were placed row upon row.

Overtax Hospital Facilities

City hospital reported its capacities overtaxed and two priests were there administering last rites.

Dense smoke handicapped service men, police and others in removing the injured. An onlooker said appearance of some of the bodies removed indicated smoke inhalation had caused death.

Jack Martin, who saw the first burst of flames from a nearby restaurant, told of pursuing a hat check girl, Anna Lentini, who fled the burning building and ran in the street with her hair and clothes aflame.

"I beat out the flames with my hands and took her into a restaurant," he related. "She was suffering intensely. Her hair was burned off and she was in terrible agony. We finally commandeered a car and took her to city hospital."

Proclamation

I, the mayor of Sedalia do hereby declare November 29th to December 6th as "Bundles for America Week".

Special mention is made of the work and cooperation of the various crafts of the Missouri Pacific Shops and the handy work of many of our patriotic women in Sedalia, every boy in the service is given a money and personal possession belt which gifts are deeply appreciated by these brave lads.

Through the patriotic efforts of the civic, patriotic cultural and church organizations over the city and county operating as individuals and organizations many fine things are being done for our own Pettis county boys who are already in the service of their country and for those who are entering the army just now.

We request every one in Pettis county to be especially conscious of the sacrifice being made by our boys during the coming "Bundles for America Week."

A. H. Wilks Mayor of Sedalia.

Woman Slays Bone Specialist

Killer Apparently Under Delusion Doctor Imposter

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 28.—(AP)—Three bullets—fired by a woman apparently under the delusion she was slaying an imposter—today killed Dr. Marion L. Klinefelter, noted St. Louis bone surgeon.

"Well, Mr. mad man; how are you?" muttered a woman identified as a former patient as she fired across the specialist's desk on the fourth floor of the Missouri Baptist hospital.

Detective Walter Laturno disclosed Miss Florence Ferrara, 29, had been arrested. Police said the woman told them the real Dr. Klinefelter died in 1904 and a man named Wilder had impersonated him.

Relates Her Version

Miss Ferrara, her voice quiet, related her version of the affair:

"Dr. Klinefelter is not the man I shot. The man I shot is named Meldrum Wilder and he is the one who killed Dr. Klinefelter in 1904. He has been posing as Dr. Klinefelter ever since then and has been chloroforming and crippling people for years.

"In 1936 I had an infected finger and he treated me for that, but he didn't get me, and he's been trying to get me ever since. So last summer I went over to East St. Louis (Ill) and bought a pistol for my own protection, and this morning I decided to go out and see him face to face.

"I said, 'Mr. Wilder, here I am,' and he grabbed the telephone. He wanted to get somebody to use ether on me so I shot him in self defense.

"He had been having me followed, watched and the men who were following me were trying to place a cloth filled with chloroform on my face so they could take me to the doctor and he could break my bones."

A witness to the shooting was nurse Gladys Wright, who was seated at the desk with Klinefelter. The nurse and Dr. William R. Bohne, assistant to Klinefelter, identified the woman as Miss Ferrara.

Fled After Shooting

Miss Wright, sobbing, told police the woman walked into the doctor's private office, greeter the specialist as "Mr. Mad Man" and jerked a pistol from under her coat. She fled to the hall after the shooting and escaped.

Vincent D'Angelo, a parking lot attendant, told police he accompanied the woman to the hospital after her parents left the Ferrara automobile. He said he remained in a reception room while she walked on to the Klinefelter office.

Hearing the shots, he left the hospital and drove away, but police picked him up almost immediately when he drove through a stop sign.

"I've just come from a shooting

Submarine In Daring Escape

Survivors Of Scuttled Fleet To Barcelona

LONDON, Nov. 28—(AP)—An escaping French submarine arrived in Barcelona today as the lone known survivor of the home fleet at Toulon which was destroyed, according to a communique broadcast from Vichy tonight, on instructions issued at the time of the armistice of June, 1940.

There was no detail on the instructions, but it was assumed that they were probably meant to be put in operation when and if the Germans breached the armistice terms, as they did in overstepping the demarcation line last Nov. 11 and in grabbing for the armistice-bound fleet yesterday.

The Vichy communique said scuttling of the warships was preferable to "letting them be taken over by any foreign power whatever."

The Vichy ministers were called into Pierre Laval's office and told of the German decision to occupy Toulon after the operation was in progress, it said.

Admiral Jean Darlan issued a proclamation in Algiers declaring that all the French fleet at Toulon had been "sunk or scuttled" and this was officially termed "welcome news" at allied headquarters in North Africa. But hope was held out that some of the units got away, as did the submarine at Barcelona, and would join the allies.

Lieut.-Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's headquarters still lacked official confirmation of the destruction of the fleet, but censored French newspapers at Algiers, without giving their sources of information, published a list of all capital ships at Toulon as destroyed. The only ships not listed were some smaller craft and submarines.

Customary Hospitality

At Barcelona, the escaped submarine was given the customary hospitality of the port during which she could take on fuel and supplies sufficient for her to reach the allies in Africa.

Under international law a seaworthy belligerent warship must leave a neutral port within 24 hours of arrival or submit to internment. If a belligerent warship is not seaworthy, she may get amnesty for a period of time fixed by the country at whose port she calls. The reports from Barcelona indicated the French submarine was seaworthy but did not give her specific condition.

The arrival time was fixed by the Spanish authorities at 1:30 p. m. today.

There was no indication of the submarine commander's decision—whether to stay or move on—after his 225-mile run under the Gulf of Lions to the nearest big neutral port while Axis surface craft and air forces patroled the waters off Toulon.

However, the allied and affiliated French commands expressed the hope that other French warships had escaped ahead of the German occupation and the explosive French scuttling operations at Toulon yesterday, and ex-

Possibility Of Payment Of Bonus To Pensioners

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 28—(AP)—The $3,000,000 old age pension appropriation passed by the legislature today could mean bonus payments ranging all the way from $5 to $50 for each of the state's 113,000 pensioners.

The amount they will get depends upon:

1. The size of the appropriation Gov. Forrest C. Donnell approves.

2. Whether the federal government will match state dollars for pension payments for months previous to the month in which the checks are mailed.

If Donnell approves the entire appropriation and Washington matches it in full, it would mean an average payment of about $50 for each pensioner — or about three-fifths of the total arrearages accumulated since pensions were cut 30 per cent in July of 1941.

But if Donnell clings to his stand against approving appropriations for any expenses prior to the passage of the act and cuts the bill to the $600,000 he asked, that amount—even when federally matched—would provide only about $10 for each average pensioner.

It is even possible Donnell might approve only half the $600,000 if it appears too late to make November's additional pension payment before this month is out. In that case, the pensioner's bonus would drop to $5.

Most legislators proceeded on this theory: That the federal government would match $600,000 for current pension boosts, and that the other $2,400,000 would go unmatched toward back payments.

That would make available a total of $3,600,000 permitting average bonus payments of about $32 to each pensioner.

Surprise Stroke By Reds Kills 10,000 Germans And Routs Five Divisions

U. S. Aircraft Pounds Heavy On Jap Bases

Naval Force Of Foe Maneuvers Off New Guinea

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—(AP)—American aircraft, striking heavily at Japanese bases in the northwestern Solomons, were reported by the navy today to have destroyed all buildings in the Munda area of New Georgia Island and blasted the Kahili airdrome on the island of Bougainville.

Ground operations around American positions on Guadalcanal island were limited to local skirmishes. In a series of these actions our patrols killed 50 Japanese and captured a number of machine guns Friday about six miles west of the American airfield, a communique said.

Two enemy bombers made the third straight night nuisance raid on American positions on the island Friday night. They dropped bombs near the mouth of the Lunga river but caused no damage.

In contrast with this greatly curtailed enemy activity, the result of smashing blows dealt the Japs in the Solomons earlier this month, was a report made here today by a marine combat engineer on the first two months of the American occupation of Guadalcanal.

Quickly Repair Damage

Capt. Walter R. Lytz said the airfield was repeatedly and accurately bombed while he was there, although damage was quickly repaired; that day and night aerial attacks and night naval bombardments were frequent and that the Japanese on land were constantly punching at the American lines so that the engineers completing and extending the airfield sometimes had to fight all night and then work all day.

Today's communique, like all others issued in the last two weeks indicated that the Japanese have been entirely on the defensive, except for nuisance activity, since their greatest effort at reconquest of the Southeastern Solomons was crushed by American air and naval power two weeks ago.

That they are collecting for another big push, however, is generally accepted in high quarters here, and it is this fact that gave special significance to the destructive aerial attacks on Munda and Kahili—bases which the Japs would use in gathering their ships, planes, men and supplies for their next try.

Jap Vessels Maneuver

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN Australia, Sunday, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Risking the deadly bombs of General Douglas Mac Arthur's planes, a Jap naval force again is maneuvering off the New Guinea coast near Buna where their ground forces have been pinned against the sea, the high command announced today.

The communique, one of the briefest in recent days on the bitter-end struggle for possession of all northeastern New Guinea, gave no indication of the naval force's intent but previous naval sorties have been for the purpose of landing reinforcements.

For the second straight day, Japanese counterattacks were reported to have been repulsed, adding strength to the growing picture of enemy determination not to yield until crushed.

Other activity reported included allied bomber raids on Portuguese Timor and a raid by 12 Jap bombers on the airdrome at Darwin, Australia, "without damage."

Previous efforts of the Japs to land reinforcements have been only partially successful and cost them a light cruiser and from four to five destroyers.

Slight Damage As Cars Collide

Slight damage resulted to a parked Chevrolet sedan of H. K. Ford of Kansas City when it was struck by a Dodge sedan drive by G. L. Lawson, 621 North Osage avenue, in the 500 block on East Fifth street, about 1:20 o'clock Saturday afternoon. Lawson was headed east when the accident occurred.

Police made an investigation. No arrests were made.

Assembly In Approval Of Appropriations

Votes For Three Million To Be Paid Pensioners

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 28.—(AP)—Missouri's lame duck legislature came to a formal close at 6 p. m. tonight and many members left for their homes convinced that vetoes by the governor would undo much of the work they did in a 25-day special session.

The legislature appropriated $5,203,467 for old age pensioners and bankrupt state departments.

But Gov. Forrest C. Donnell wanted only $2,500,000 taken from the treasury. And—by one comparatively minor veto today—he clearly indicated the possibility he might cut the appropriations down to his size, leaving thousands of dollars in state debts unpaid.

In its closing minutes the assembly rushed through a $3,000,000 compromise grant to old age pensioners which would restore a part of a 30 per cent pension cut made in July, 1941. But speakers in the house freely predicted Donnell would whack the appropriation down to $600,000—the amount he asked-and even a part of that was in danger.

Donnell wanted the $600,000 to restore the pension cut for November and December only, and the bill must be on his desk before November closes to insure payment of this month's restoration. Legislative leaders hustled tonight to get the bill through the formalities of signing so it could reach the governor Monday, the last day of the month.

The session ended as it began—with bristling criticism of the governor for his financial policy of recognizing only current debts. House Floor Leader H. P. Lauf (D) Cole county, dubbed the governor "the dictor of this assembly" in the closing minutes of the session as he told the members it was useless to try to override Donnell.

Up Donnell Figures

Donnell's differences with the legislature began when he called only for enough money to finance the state through November and December, ignoring thousands of dollars of debts which have accumulated since the last session.

The house threw his figures into the discard and, with the senate, voted enough money to pay most of those old obligations. But

Windsor Officer Killed In Action

F. L. Stafford, postmaster at Windsor and Mrs. Stafford have received a telegram from Lieutenant General Holcomb, Commandant U. S. Marine Corps, telling them that their son, Richard Yeater Stafford, was killed in action in the service of his country in the Solomon Islands.

In June, 1942, the young man, with his company, was ordered to the South Pacific. He was with the first group to land and establish beachheads in the Guadalcanal section, and he was in the fighting continuously until the time of his death.

Besides his parents he leaves two brothers, Lieutenant Frederick B. Stafford USNR and Sergeant Oliver, Stafford, USA, who with their wives have been at the Stafford home the past week.

Soviets Liberate 300 Populated Places Breaking Defense Lines

MOSCOW, Sunday, Nov. 29.—(AP)—The Russians announced today that a surprise offensive on the northwest front had killed 10,000 German troops, routed five divisions, "liberated more than 300 populated places" and broken wide gaps in German fortifications less than 90 miles from the old Latvian border.

A special communique issued by the Soviets said that the Red army had broken through to a "strongly fortfified defense zone of the enemy" and that in the area of the town of Velikie Luki, which is 90 miles from Latvia, "the German front has been broken over a distance of 30 kilometers (about 20 miles.)

The Russians have, in fact, pushed on to the west of Velikie Luki, for the communique said the rail line between Velikie Luki and Novosokoloiniki, 25 miles to the Nevel, 35 miles southwest of Velikie Luki.

Bring Real Jubilation

The Russians, who usually broadcast their communiques with out fanfare, announced this one with jubilation and singing.

All programs were interrupted.

The radio announced then repeated several times that "this is Moscow calling" in a particularly triumphant tone and followed it by reading the recital of victories slowly and emphatically.

Songs were sung over the radio after the text was read.

The Germans already have broadcast that heavy operations were in progress on the northwest front but the Russians kept silent until the paen of triumph early today.

(The Berlin radio quoted the Transocean agency military correspondent, General Waldemar Count Stillfried, as saying the Russian offensive was launched Nov. 25 but that the Soviet attacks were repulsed and terrific losses in men and material were inflicted on the Russians.)

Victories Enumerated

In sum, the Russians announced these victories in their new offensive while the Red army was cutting deeper into the German lines in the Stalingrad fighting:

About 10,000 enemy dead left on the battlefield;

Four infantry divisions and one tank division of the Germans sent reeling in utter rout;

More than 300 populated places liberated;

Three key rail lines broken: The line from Velikie Luki-Novosokoliniki and Velikie Luki-Nevel lines and the road from Rzhev to Vyazma, 75 miles south of Rzhev;

The German front blasted over a distance of 30 kilometers (about 20 miles) in the area of Velikie Luki;

The enemy front broken in three places west of Rzhev, which is 125 miles northwest of Moscow and 140 miles east of Velikie Luki; and an advance in all indicated directions over a depth of from 12 to 30 kilometers (8 to 20 miles).

The offensive is an effective companion piece to the Stalingrad drive. It was launched several days ago, the special communique said, and since then the Russians have repeatedly broken the German strong points.

(Velikie Luki is some 130 miles northwest of Smolensk, key Russian city held by the Germans. There is the possibility that the Red offensive, if it generates sufficient power, might sweep down behind Smolensk in a great enveloping maneuver designed to force the Germans back out of that vital sector.)

Take Much Material

For an operation of such magnitude, the Russians announced the capture of only about 400 prisoners. The communique said material captured included 138 guns, 110 mortars, 593 machine-guns, 3,592 rifles, ammunition dumps, stores of provisions and supplies.

One hundred and six guns, 180 mortars, 300 machine-guns and 50 tanks have been destroyed, the special communique added.

The regular Soviet communique issued shortly after the special victory announcement reported that the defenders of Stalingrad have "entirely recaptured the factory area" in the northern part of that battered city.

"Our troops in the area of Stalingrad overcame enemy resistance

Crossroads Comment

by G.H.S.

Let's Keep The Record Straight—

Twice in one day I heard men remark, "You can't believe what you read in the newspapers." They referred to stories one day quoting a high government official who said married men would not be drafted immediately; and that the next day another official said married men would be drafted at once; another about immediate gasoline rationing, followed the next day by an order of postponement, etc., etc., without end.

Readers are not justified in blaming the newspapers for this confusion. Newspapers perform the service of bringing news of current events to their readers. High government officials, charged with major responsibilities are paid salaries that come from the taxpayers' pocket. When these men make public statements, the newspapers and the taxpayers expect their remarks to be authoritative. But when these gentlemen with high sounding titles throw themselves into contradictory verbal gymnastics, it is the fault of their confused thinking and personal inefficiency, not the fault of the newspapers.

It is better for the newspapers to put these spokesmen on written record so the people may know, so they may be informed how their government and its departments are working. The people then can draw their own conclusions and prepare to demand an accounting at the polls.

Don't blame the newspapers for the inconsistencies of some public officials. These men only got into their jobs because the voters put them there while newspapers clamored against it.

The Role of Marshal Petain—

A person is filled with revulsion to hear the persistent and feeble appeal of Marshal Petain of Vichy: "Resist the Anglo-Saxon aggression," "I remain your guide," "Follow Laval," "You have only one duty, obey!" "Disorder reigns in minds, so submit to my discipline to save yourselves."

Surely disorder does reign in minds. One is inclined to pity this old man who clings to his obsession of supporting the axis, scarcely realizing the momentous changes in the war's trend.

Yet there is a charitable hope that the future may reveal Petain played a sacrificial part for his beloved country—France; stemming the tide of Nazi ruthlessness until such a time as the United Nations could assemble sufficient power to crush the military monster Hitler and all his cohorts.

A Heap O' Kindness—

With all the examples of accursed selfishness about us, a refreshing incident occurred on the eve of Thanksgiving season.

Most Pettis countians know of Uncle Dick Thomas out on Beaman Route 1. He is 82 years old. His good wife, 61, has been bedfast since last January with a weak heart. Lately they had been wondering how they were going to get in their wood for the coming winter. Custom was to have enough cut and sawed in the fall to last a year. The timber is on their farm, but owing to so many men being called to the army, farmers have been having a hard time getting help when needed.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas' problem was solved just before Thanksgiving time when eighteen neighbors came to their place with axes and cross-cut saws, a tractor and wood saw. These generous men proceeded to cut and saw down trees, trim them and pile the brush and sawed wood into stove lengths—enough wood to last the Thomases a whole year.

These friendly folk would not accept pay for their work. They were only doing a neighborly act. Their work was voluntary and unexpected, making it doubly appreciated.

Needless to say the Thomases were very thankful for the thoughtfulness of their neighbors in an hour of need. Good neighbors are good friends, indeed, especially so in these trying times.

We have learned the names of the men who took part in the wood-cutting on the Dick Thomas farm: Leonard Fall, Foss O'Neil, Elmer Hyatt, Raymond Simmons, Lawrence Lee, Riley Lee, Leslie Payne, Willie Webb, Arnold Webb, Herschel Webb, Roy Greer, Henry Holman, Robert Holman, B. F. Greer, McKinley Thomas and Clay Thomas.

Their neighborly act should be as balsam to the cynics who prate that there is no brotherly love.

"Togo Say Uo"—

Americans who declare "the war will be over in three or four months," reckon without understanding Japanese mentality.

A U. S. seaman relates the story of an attempted rescue of Japanese sailors floating on rafts after a Solomon island battle. They declined rescue by his American destroyer. "Togo say no!" was their answer.

What more emphatic proof of complete Japanese subservience to their military leaders. If Nippon's entire population scattered among the thousands of Pacific islands prefer death and suffering to capture and generous treatment, there are only two alternatives for the United Nations: kill all the Japs or capture them by knocking each one unconscious. In either case it is a mighty big time-consuming job. It can't be done in four months!

To Thine Own Self Be True—

When we speak of success, we usually attach to it a positive meaning such as the favorable termination of something attempted in a big way.

Yet success may come in little things without the fanfare and showmanship of an applauding public. If you have repaired a broken door latch that baffled an experienced carpenter, you are a success in that particular enterprise.

If you have the will power to speak kindly to another person when the spiteful course is easier—you are more of a success than having acquired material fortune.

Lou Banner permitted me to read his book "Shakespeare, the Salesman," by William B. Burruss. Developing a theme on success, the author recalls that Shakespeare had Polonius say to Laertes:

"This above all: to thine own self be true,
And . . . .
"Thou canst not then be false to any man."

Burruss says: "It doesn't make any difference what your enemies think of you, or what your friends think of you; it is what you know yourself to be that really counts. If you know you are a fourflusher, are not giving your best, and are not delivering the goods, you are not being true to yourself. And you don't get much satisfaction out of that."

There is something solid in what Polonius and Burruss say; something firm on which to stand, the real foundation of personal success.

Ariovistus Hitler—

W. W. Bassett, South Moniteau dropped into the office. He agreed with me that the world would not have been in such turmoil if Hitler could have understood what it meant to be "true to himself." Speaking on the subject of Hitler he thought it might be pertinent to reproduce an article by I. G. Wilson, Pittsburg, Kas., in a recent issue of the Kansas City Star. Here it is:

"Hitler frequently is referred to as a product of present-day history, but though he is not a native German, I am wondering if he is not a product of German history. I believe I can name a man in German history whom Hitler is emulating.

"In the high schools we used to study the first twenty-nine chapters of the first book of Caesar and even there we learned the Germans are a warlike nation. At the university I was taken through subsequent chapters of the same book and the memory of the old tyrant, Ariovistus, is a perfect counterpart of Hitler, in many ways.

Ariovistus overran the neighboring tribes.

He cared nothing for boundaries.

He was deceitful and resorted to trickery.

He made big speeches and always was bombastic.

He was invited to help a neighboring tribe and stayed to the exclusion of those he had helped. (Think of Italy.)

He asked for a diplomatic meeting with Caesar, got it, and then through treachery had his men attack Caesar.

He was a big bluffer and frightened many of Caesar's men. (Think of Chamberlain.)

Caesar was not to be bluffed. He attacked immediately and all but massacred Ariovistus' army.

Ariovistus escaped in a little boat, leaving the remnants of his army, as the Germans in North Africa left their allies, the Italians.

"Hitler has promised the world he will not desert in case of defeat as the German kaiser did and as Ariovistus did, but if he follows this parallel he also will leave hurriedly."

Tragic Inheritance—

For 2,000 years German leadership has been directed by the same deceitful and arrogant mental processes as that exemplified by Ariovistus.

To bring it up to date, no later than this very week, one only may read what German Propaganda Minister Joe Goebbels has to say to understand how the Nazi mind works.

"It is he who approaches his objective never looking to the left or right and justifying his actions by their success rather than by morals who has the advantage in war . . . . it is not so much a matter of what is moral and decent but of what promises success."

There you have it, Goebbels mimicking the "might makes right" philosophy that has been ding-donged into their national consciousness since the tribal days before Christ. Caesar recorded it, and so have historians since then for 2,000 years.

The world will never have peace until those who worship the god of war have had a mental rebirth. The only way the peace-loving can accomplish such a rejuvenation is to control for a generation or two the education of the children of warlike peoples. It sums up to the phenomenal job of human domestication on a global basis. The curriculum should be embraced in the scholastics of the victors as well as the vanquished.

People Are Smelly—

Children at play splash perfume on their dresses until the whole house has a sickening odor; the magazine murder-mystery story I am reading hinges a clue to its solution in the smell of a gardenia; another novel's author has the heroine learn the trick of tapping a little seductive perfume behind her ears and on her breast.

With my mind on smells, therefore, it was a coincidence to attend a meeting and hear Dr. J. E. Cannaday relate an experience he had in Labrador. He and a party of Americans entered a meeting hall to witness an annual Eskimo ceremonial. The Eskimos smelled rank, but the Americans could take it, so curious were they to witness the Arctic ritual.

All of a sudden the Eskimors turned white around the mouth and fled the building, leaving the Americans alone. Investigation of this strange procedure revealed that the Eskimos had actually come close to fainting because their sensitive nostrils could not stand the body odor of the Americans. Smells fishy, but Doc swears its a fact.

Later, I spent an hour in an eating establishment where the cooking odors were prevalent but not noticeable to the diners. Upon returning to work the office force wanted to know where I had been. Puzzled at their unexpected interest I told them and asked why they were so curious. They said I smelled like a freshly-cooked doughnut. Although I was not conscious of it, my overcoat had become saturated with the cooking odors.

Senitivity of the olfactory nerves of one's nose is certainly remarkable. This local experience convinces me that Dr. Cannaday's story of the Eskimos is factual.

As Shakespeare opines in King Lear: — ". . . . there's not a nose among twenty but can smell him that's stinking."

Merry-Go-Round

Major Robert S. Allen On Active Duty

WASHINGTON—It takes only a pencil, a paper and a little arithmetic to ascertain what no longer can be a military secret, namely that airplane carriers probably have almost vanished from the face of the Pacific ocean.

Our announced losses, subtracted from the total number of carriers we had when war began, leaves us with a slim margin. Also, we know by our announcements of Jap losses that they are in the same boat.

The last naval battle north of the Solomons had all the earmarks of being fought without any carriers on either side.

If this is true, it brings out some highly important factors regarding future warfare in the Pacific. It means first, that we have to depend on islands to serve as stationary airplane carriers. Second, it may mean that we will not build airplane carriers in the future. This latter point is debatable. But there is no debating the importance of Pacific islands as air bases.

Today, the chief importance of the Solomon islands is its airfield. That also is the chief importance of New Guinea.

But most of the island airplane carriers of the Pacific are in the hands of the enemy. Thousands of islands dot the Pacific between Hawaii and Japan, all in Jap hands. Enough airfields have been developed on them to make it almost impossible for a fleet to approach the main Japanese islands without suffering terrific damage from swarms of deadly land-based planes.

A few years ago, newspapermen covering the State Department used a gag to enable them to write a news story on Christmas and Easter. They queried the State Department regarding conflicting American-British claims to Christmas island and Easter island, and always got the bored response from the State Department that the United States didn't consider them worth claiming.

Today, however, the United States would give its eye-teeth for more Pacific islands. Those that we allowed Japan to take at the Versailles Peace conference almost mean the balance of naval power in the Pacific.

Future Of Flat-Top

Inside fact regarding U. S. airplane carriers is that some of them have been lost while doing normal submarine patrol duty and cruising at suicidal slow speed. At slow speed a submarine can catch up with them, and submarine torpedoes have accounted for carrier deaths.

This slow speed may be necessary, because fuel oil is hard to get in the South Pacific, but it is not good naval planning. If a carrier operates at top speed no submarine can catch her.

When the Lexington was sunk she was within only 200 miles of another U. S. carrier, which means about thirty minutes flying distance or less. American carriers should not operate that close together, and there was some inside criticism of the commanders which never leaked out.

So the future of the carrier remains to be seen, though there are so few of them left that their future may not be decided definitely in this war.

Capital Chaff

The Chinese complained to Wendell Willkie that no important American had visited China since the visit of Gen. U. S. Grant. When Republican ex-National Chairman John Hamilton heard of this he said: "I'm going to tell that to Henry P. Fletcher. He once ran the American Legation in China." . . . When polo player Winston Guest was visiting in Argentina, his Argentine host complained that the U. S. A. didn't understand the Argentine point of view, especially in regard to meat. "Oh," said Guest, "we'll sell you all you want.". . . One all-important backstage link between the United States and Gen. Giraud, in preparation for the North African landing, was Gen. Odic, of the French air corps. Residing in Washington on a colonel's salary paid by the U. S. Army, Odic gave invaluable advice on airports around Casablanca, kept up contacts with Giraud . . . . The anti-New Deal Republican New York Herald Tribune recently refused the following want ad: "CONSULTING EXPERT, long on government payrolls, sickened with waste of time, money and materials, wants part time remuneration in opposition to non-essential spending of defense funds."

Mrs. Roosevelt's Secretary

The woman who travels over the world with Mrs. Roosevelt has certain vigorous things to say about the female of the species. Malvina Thompson, secretary of the first lady, says women would be more respected in the world if they would be more business-like.

She has little admiration for the women who write to Mrs. Roosevelt by the score asking special favors, such as promotions and commissions, for their husbands.

Miss Thompson has been close to Mrs. Roosevelt for more than ten years, but she has always kept the relations on a professional basis, never asking favors for herself or her family.

The other day, she asked Mrs. Roosevelt for a few days leave to visit her mother, who is ill.

"But, Tommy!" exclaimed Mrs. Roosevelt, "I didn't know you had a mother."

Tin Can Co-Operation

The Washington Merry-Go-Round salutes Milltown, N. J., for its tin can exchange plan.

Officials in Washington have been pulling and hauling over the tin can collection problem. There were wrangles over de-tinning facilities, and other wrangles over the best methods of collection. In New York City, cans came in so fast, the dirty mixed with the clean, that de-tinning plants couldn't handle them, and Mayor LaGuardia was forced to revise the campaign.

Meantime, the borough of Milltown, population 3,500, has instituted a plan of its own which makes Washington sit up and take notice. It is called the "can-for-can exchange plan." If a housewife wants to buy a can of soup, she must bring along a prepared empty can, to be surrendered in exchange. If she has no empty, she must pay two cents extra for the new can.

A prepared can is one which has been cleaned and flattened, with both ends and the label removed. In this form, cans can be shipped economically, and de-tinned efficiently.

Mayor Walter Richter is getting full co-operation from the town's merchants.

NOTE: Milltown, near New Brunswick, in the center of the state, is not to be confused with Leon Henderson's home town of Millville, in south Jersey.

THE STORY: Sverre Hammer tells the dramatic story of revolt in Stoksund to a trusted group of Trollness patriots. Pastor Aalsen urges the men to live peacefully despite the oppression of their conquerors, but the men will not listen. Solveig, wife and mother, declares the village must face even the bombing of innocent women and children.

TAKE THE INITIATIVE

CHAPTER IX

"PASTOR!" It was the farmer, Knut Osterholm. He limped forward and raised his hands over his head to be heard. "Pastor, we will give you the right to your opinion.

"We will give you your own mind in the matter. But you must give us ours."

"What do you mean?" said Aalesen. His thin, boyish face was working with emotion.

"I mean that if we let you go your way, you must let us go ours. You will not be held responsible. But you must give us your holy word that if you are asked questions you will not betray us."

Breathless, they looked up at him. There were tears in his eyes. He gazed down at their hard, dark faces, and bowed his head. For a moment they all waited. Then, "Yes," he said at last, "I give you my word."

Hammer sat down, the white bundles of his hands before his face. The doctor cleared his throat. "I think we are all agreed," he said. Whispers of conversation sprang up. Each man looked awkwardly at his neighbor to see what he thought.

Gunnar stood up. "It has not started yet," he said, slowly. "But all of us know we must be ready. If we get the guns Hammer has talked about we must have a way thought out to use them."

"On the other hand," said farmer Kjerlof, who was a shy little man about 50, "perhaps if we let well enough alone we won't have to fight. The Germans aren't looking for trouble, you understand, and surely, in such a great war . . . the sacrifice of our poor village . . . well, what will it accomplish?" He stopped in confusion, pulling at his little white beard and coughing all the time to conceal his nervousness.

Slowly Hammer turned toward him. "How is it the Germans come to search our houses at night?" he asked. "Who is it who has ordered all the sweaters and blankets in Norway confiscated so we can freeze to death this winter? Who teaches our children in school the most hideous untruths? Who has stolen our food, our factories, our money, even our skis for their army? Do they ask your permission? No, they hem you in on every side, so that not a minute of the day or night is your own. What were you born for? Are you a human being, or a cat, to be dragged in or out every hour whenever your master pleases? Why do we have blacking in the windows and a guard at the door?" he asked.

"It's time we talked business," said the doctor.

"Dr. Stensgard is right," said Gunnar. He saw Solveig nod to him, and plunged on. "Ever since he told me this morning what happened, I've been thinking it over. I think I have a plan whereby we here in Trollness can hold our own when the trouble comes."

"Ja," said Kjerlof. "But what for? Understand, I'm only asking."

Hammer had heard dozens of such conversations. He thought, "So it comes now. That is the man they wait for. There is always one." He sat down. The fishermen drew closer. Gunnar had gone over to the table.

"Let's get to the point," said one of the fishermen.

"Well," said Gunnar, "look here." He pointed down at the table. "Here, this line is the coast." He traced it with his finger. "Here is the place where the fjord cuts inland. Here is the town, and here, at the end, is the bridge going south."

Lars Malken came forward and stood at Gunnar's shoulder, looking down at the pointed finger.

"Here is Dr. Stensgard's little summer house, and the two rowboats he keeps moored at a piling. "The Germans will never bother about them."

"Ja," said the doctor, nodding gravely, "that is right."

"Lars, do you remember that this morning I asked you to hide three outboard motors?"

"Motors?" said the old man. "Yes, you did. Of course I remember."

"Where are they?"

"In the cellar of my shop."

"Good. Those three motors must be moved out to the summer house and buried in wooden boxes, or hidden so we can get them in a hurry when we need them."

"Ha!" cried Malken. "I misjudged you, Gunnar. Good. Good."

"Every one of must give as much gasoline as he can spare. That, too, must be hidden in drums down at the summer house. It can be moved there at night."

"We must delegate men to do that," said Stensgard.

* * *

"YOU see," Gunnar went on, "one thing that wins battles is being able to move with more freedom than the enemy. So I first want to make sure we are not trapped the way they were in Stoksund. That we do now. And second, I want to make sure the enemy cannot move. If we can do both those things, we have won on the first stroke."

"So far you are better off than we were," said Hammer. "We were caught unawares."

"Wait," Gunnar interrupted. "If it comes to a fight, and we are well armed and ready, what is the first thing the captain would do?"

"Send for reinforcements, or get planes the way they did down the coast."

"He would telephone to Stoksund. Right? Or even down to Namsos. At any rate, to the nearest strong post of command."

"So."

"Here is where the wires cross over the bridge." He marked the place with his finger again. "Two men must be chosen to cut those wires before the action ever begins."

"And what will you do," Lars Malken cried excitedly, "about the wireless?"

Gunnar stopped to look up. "We come to that in a minute. There are only three ways for them to get a message out," the fisherman went on. "By telephone, by wireless, as Lars Malken has suggested, and by courier."

The room was deadly silent. "I've tried to think it all out very carefully. We can stop a telephone. We smash the dynamo that furnishes current for the wireless. A courier can take only one of a very few routes out of town. We must post a dozen or so men up on the road that runs behind the hotel. Their task will be to stop any move in that direction. If the enemy moves out in force, we attack those that are left in town. If only a few try to get through, our men, put in the right places, can stop them. The second path out for them is over the bridge where the wires are. We have to destroy that bridge before the action starts. The road north can easily be commanded from the battery on the point. Half a dozen men there can overwhelm the guard and take over. So that part of it is taken care of."

The doctor slapped his hand together enthusiastically. "Gunnar, you are positively a tactician! Beautifully done. Beautifully."

Declares Axis Armies Are Reeling On All The Fronts

By E. C. DANIEL

LONDON, Nov. 28—(AP)—Axis armies are reeling back on all fronts, British Air Minister Sir Archibald Sinclair said Friday.

"This dispositions of the German high command" already are conforming to the will of the allies, he told the foreign press association.

The second front in North Africia has forced Hitler to divert a fifth of the air force he used against the Russians, and as a result:

"The heroic Russians, unflinching and indomitable in defense, now are passing to the attack and hewing their way through the massed German and their allied divisions."

The air minister said the RAF and the United States air forces already had been engaging half the German and all the Italian air forces in the European and African theaters.

"No longer is it we who ask themselves what Hitler is going to do," he declared, "Hitler's problem now is how to parry our strokes. Twice within a month the German army has been soundly beaten. In addition the German high command has been outwitted and outmaneuvered in North Africa."

He forecast heavier bombing blows against Germany this winter and declared it was the bomber command's task to see that German forces do not get the new equipment with which Hitler hopes to recover his losses next spring.

Applause rang out when he praised the fighting French.

"We shall not forget the fighting French who under Gen. De Gaulle's leadership refused to accept defeat and kept alive the flame of French resistance to Germany."

Students Remember Needy Families

Students of Smith- Cotton high school remembered their less fortunate fellow citizens on Thanksgiving by distributing twenty-nine baskets of food, including a chicken in each, among the needy families of the city. The names were obtained from Miss Bettye Field, school nurse, and the baskets were filled under the supervision of Miss Edna Snell, faculty member.

The baskets were prepared according to home rooms, students bringing cash donations to buy the food for the basket their own room was filling. In addition to the twenty-seven prepared by the home rooms there were two others, one by the senior student council and one by the junior student council.

Thieves Probably See Snakes By Now

CHICAGO, Nov. 28—(AP)—The thieves who cleaned out Miss Rita Johnson's room last night are probably seeing snakes by now—and they're real. GAS Goes to War!

To Help Build 'Em Faster and Better
USE GAS WISELY!

The same gas that fries your breakfast bacon is vital war material needed to help turn steel into precision parts for guns, tanks, planes, ships, shells—in fact, nearly every weapon we need to win this war. As production skyrockets, the use of gas in the many war plants serviced by the same natural gas network from which Sedalia receives its supply is doubling and tripling.

Normally the gas industry could obtain steel and other materials to enlarge the gas supply and meet all requirements. Today, this is impossible. The gas industry must supply the increasing amounts of gas needed for homes and war plants with it present facilities.

Will you do your patriotic part by using gas wisely and avoiding waste?

THESE SEVEN SUGGESTIONS WILL HELP YOU CONSERVE ON GAS:

1. Refrain from using the range oven for space heating.
2. Make the house air-tight through insulation, storm sash, weather stripping and caulking.
3. Put heating system in top-notch condition.
4. Set thermostat at 65 degrees during the day and lower at night. Shut off parts of the house not in use.
5. Economize in use of the range by us-using a low blue flame, cutting down on amount of water in which to cook vegetables, cooking more one-dish meals and keeping burners clean.
6. Economize in use of water heater by repairing leaky faucets, insulating pipes and tanks, not leaving hot water running while washing, not filling tubs for baths and setting thermostats at a minimum (120-140).
7. Economize in the use of the refrigerator by not leaving the door open, not putting hot or warm wishes in refrigerator and not crowding.

Workers Must Report Changes

Many workers in war plants, according to A. F. Silber, manager of the Social Security Board office in Sedalia, have changed their names through marriage or for other reasons, and have never notified the Social Security Board. "It is advisable to notify the board of any changes of name that should be made in the official records, as well as to correct any errors made in the original application blanks, such as date of birth or father's and mother's name," Mr. Silber said.

Application for a change in records may be had by applying at any Social Security Board office. Those wishing to make changes or corrections should bring their account number cards. If the card has been lost, a duplicate may be requested at the same time. In cases where names have been changed the employers should also be informed, so that the names reported by them on tax returns will be the same as shown on the corrected account number cards.

The reporting of such corrections and changes is necessary in order that the Social Security Board may maintain accurate records at all times, to assure prompt payment of old-age and survivors insurance claims, Mr. Silber said. He added that it would not be necessary to report any changes in address and that no charge is made for the correction of records or the issuance of duplicate cards.

Surprise Stroke By Reds Kills 10,000 Germans And Routs Five Divisions

Giving the enemy no respite, the Red army hurled the last German forces back across the Don river west of Stalingrad yesterday and wheeled eastward in a mighty drive to smash the Nazi army before the besieged citadel.

By occupying the great Cossack settlement of Kletskaya on the west bank of the Don 80 miles northwest of Stalingrad, the Russians completed the first major part of their early-winter offensive as German casualties mounted to 108,000 killed and captured.

Facing increased Nazi resistance and with snow fast piling up on the barren steppes, the Red army's plan to hem in and destroy the 300,000 Germans stalled about Stalingrad slowed in its pace and became less spectacular, but the warmly-clothed Russians proceeded methodically with the task.

A DRESS that wears its own jewelry is the black one shown at left. The bracelet and pin are embroidered in antique silver and colored stones, copied from Mexican motifs. Practical is the short but dressy black crepe frock, center, with a "sweetheart" neck embroidered in silver and blue. The dinner hat has sprays of black and pale blue feathers. Typical of the new pale colors for winter is the draped beige crepe at right, which looks particularly well with furs and dark accessories to point it up. Its fastenings are large black circlets. All three dresses were designed by Charles Armour.

Nine More Supply Ships Of Axis Are Sunk By British

Nazi counterattack at Tebourda, only 15 miles west of Tunis, repulsed with the loss of 10 enemy tanks.

"The enemy is generally on the defensive in the Tunisian area," the report continued. "In an effort to delay the progress of our troops the enemy is attempting to blow up bridges, roads and railway lines."

Although weather conditions and muddy airfields were said to be hampering air activities, allied night fighters were reported to have shot down four axis bombers that attempted to raid Algiers last night.

The Paris radio had reported earlier that British, American and French forces of the army enveloping the last-ditch axis garrisons in Tunisia were attacking violently and had driven several wedges into the Nazis' defense lines.

The broadcast also said the allies had infiltrated into axis lines in the Mejez El Bab region, a tactically important communications point outside the main Tunis Bizerte fortifications.

Both the German and Italian communiques mentioned only limited local fighting, neither confirming last night's report from Algiers that the allies had "left their defense lines" and had launched their big blow to wipe the axis from Tunisia.

Raid On Airfield

The Italian communique reported a raid on the allied airfield at Bone, in Algeria, where it said runways and grounded planes were hit. The Germans claimed 20 allied planes had been shot down and said their aerial attacks on British and American forces operating in the foothills of the Tunisian highlands were causing them "considerable difficulty."

For the second straight day, British Middle East headquarters at Cairo announced there was "nothing to report" from its land forces, which apparently had lost contact temporarily with Rommel's troops in the El Agheila sector.

United States flying fortresses carried out a heavy attack on Portolago Bay on Leros Island in the Italian Dodecanese last night, American headquarters announced, causing fires on ships and drydock facilities that were visible for 25 miles.

Three axis planes, including a twin-motored bomber flying between Sicily and North Africa, were reported shot down in yesterday's operations.

Admiral Jean Darlan, in Algiers, who had appealed to his old fleet to join him, broadcast a new plea for any fugitive from the Germans to come to the allies in Africa.

The Axis yesterday reported that two submarines had escaped from Toulon and that a third struck a mine dropped from a German warplane. Unconfirmed reports said some other small warships, such as destroyers, might have gotten way, too.

Four Fliers Die In Bomber Crash

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Nov. 28—(AP)—Four army fliers were killed when their two-engine bomber crashed on a ridge 65 miles northwest of Albuquerque about 1 a. m., today, the Kirtland Field army air base announced.

Names of the dead fliers were withheld, but were expected to be released later in the day.

Bodies of the men were brought back to Albuquerque, but a ground crew remained at the scene.

The accident, Col. Frank Hackett, base commandant said, was on the far north target bombing area west of Albuquerque. The plane was a training ship and was on a routine training mission.

Talk Of Ickes For Labor Post

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—(AP)—Friends of Harold L. Ickes reported tonight that he was pondering at his Olney, Md., farm over the week end whether to accept the combined post of Secretary of Labor and War Manpower boss.

These associates hinted strongly that Ickes had received a formal tender of the new assignment as indications mounted that President Roosevelt was seriously considering a three-way cabinet shuffle. No official statement was available, however, beyond the White House comment Friday that the manpower question was being studied, and Ickes himself was inaccessible.

Usually reliable but unquotable sources said the plan was to combine in Ickes the powers presently held by Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins and Chairman Paul V. McNutt of the War Manpower Commission. McNutt then would replace Ickes as Secretary of the Interior and Petroleum Coordinator, and Miss Perkins—the only woman ever to hold American cabinet rank—would be given McNutt's other position as federal security administrator. In the federal hierarchy, this post is only slightly below the cabinet and the holder attends cabinet meetings.

A check of numerous administration leaders turned up no one who would deny the reports but a few observed that even if the plan existed it might not be carried out for one reason or another.

Assembly In Approval Of Appropriations

Donnell today vetoed the first such item to reach his desk. The assembly voted $15,000 to pay Negro student tuition outside the state but Donnell cut it to $5,000, saying that was enough for November and December.

That touched off the house.

"The governor again is going to be "too little and too late" on these appropriation matters," snapped Rep. Roy Hamlin (D), Marion county. "We can pass all the money we want to. He's going to veto it down to his figure and suffering humanity will go on suffering just the same."

Lauf said the governor's attitude ignored "the honest obligation of the state" to pay its debts.

On the closing day of the session Donnell signed into law a $16,000 appropriation to refinance state hospitals at Nevada, Fulton, Farmington and Mt. Vernon. That was one of the major reasons for the special sessions. The institutions had run so low of cash that patients actually were going hungry on restricted food rations.

Still awaiting his signature, however, were four bills in which the legislature appropriated more than he recommended. If he follows today's precedent all will be cut back to their original levels.

Chiropractors state that spinal subluxations irritate the nerves and this causes a disturbance in circulation which causes disease.

Dr. Roy Keller

In 1928 Mr. Phillip O. Gravelle, a scientist of New York City who spent thirty years in study of light and color and color photography, made an important discovery. He found that when looking at a person's back under certain light produced by a low pressure mercury vapor lamp, splotches and lines of different color were observed. Different persons showed different patterns. In collaboration with a chiropractic researcher, Dr. Weiant, it was found that in the areas where the skin changed color there was tenderness. These areas were found to receive their nerve supply from points in the spine where there were subluxations. In other words they could SEE the result of subluxations. I have seen this manifestation myself but it is not commonly used to locate subluxations because they can be found otherwise with less expensive methods than the specially constructed mercury lamp. It does, however, provide substantiating evidence of the chiropractor's contention that the irritated nerve causes a dilation of the capillaries which are in fact capillary aneurysms of a permanent character which means there is a paralysis of the walls of the small blood vessels.

This evidence is supported by sound physiological evidence.

Chiropractic restores normal nerve supply, which means HEALTH.

Dr. Roy M. Keller, 300 W. 3rd St. Pres, Mo. State Chiropractic Board X-Ray Service.

In clothing, Miss Bacon stated that three-fourths of our woolen material is used for the Army, and 25% to 30% of cotton for military use. We must use old materials for clothing where we can. We can place tucks, pleats and ornaments over worn places.

(1) Don't buy anything you can do without—some one may need it worse.

(2) Make for yourself everything you can.

(3) Use leftovers in food and clothing.

Rev. Campbell Addresses PTA

The regular November meeting of the Whittier school Parent-Teacher association was held Tuesday afternoon at the school, and was opened with a devotional led by the principal, Miss Catherine Garman.

The program, several tableaux of a patriotic theme, was presented by the fifth grade, in charge of Miss Erma Griffin and Miss Coe LaJean Royster. Elinor Oversby commented on each picture, while a chorus sang accompaniments appropriate to each scene. First was "The Spirit of '76", second, "Betsy Ross," third "Scouts of America," fourth, "Army-Navy-Marine Red Cross Nurse," and fifth, "Uncle Sam." Billy Matthews was the saxophone soloist. As a conclusion, the entire group sang the national anthem, accompanied by Miss Royster.

The speaker for the day was the Rev. H. U. Campbell, who traced the wanderings of the pilgrims and the influence of the first Thanksgiving.

An important business meeting was held with Mrs. A. J. Gregory presiding, in which it was announced that the P.T.A. study class Christmas party will be held the second Friday in December.

Miss Mary Sue Campbell, art instructor, was presented with a wedding gift by the Whittier P.T.A.

GIRL SCOUT

Shop Talk

The Girl Scout organization of Sedalia needs troop leaders and needs them badly. The reason why we have to keep on talking so much about leaders is not recondite.. We get them, they are most enthusiastic about the Scouts, and the Scouts are equally enthusiastic about them. Then what happens? Their husbands are transferred, sent to another base, they themselves take on full time jobs. So, and usually with reluctance, they are forced to relinquish their troops, and the call goes out for more leaders. When you consider taking on a Scout Trop, don't get the idea that you are picking up something that another has dropped out of boredom. We are having leader trouble simply because of war conditions, which are inevitable. Why not call Mrs. Harold Dean and talk to her about taking on a troop? She can and will tell all about it, and, incidentally, previous experience is not required. . . . The three schools most in need of leaders are Smith-Cotton, Whittier, and Washington. . . . Last week being given over to books, the local Scouts put their heads and hands to work and produced some excellent book marks which were distributed around town in the various libraries. . . Scrap drive is more or less over, but Scout Troop No. 56, under the leadership of Mrs. Ross will continue to collect keys. It is a safe bet that there are a good many keys in Sedalia that, for one reason or another, have not yet been turned in. So if you have any, and want to slap the Japanese by this simple and effective method, call Mrs. Ross, or the Girl Scout office and your keys will be taken care of. . . . Troops 17 and 24 are hard at work selling Christmas cards, a time honored means of raising hard cash.

Federation Program

Federation Day was observed at the Helen G. Steele Music club last Wednesday afternoon at the Heard Memorial clubhouse. Junior winners of the Competitive Festival, held in Sedalia last spring, and of the Missouri State Fair contests took part in the program as follows:

Winners of the Competitive Festival:

"Scotch Poem" (McDowell-Bernard), piano duo by Ruth Ann Yunker and Hubert Sewell, pupils of Miss DeWitt.

Betty Jo Thorpe, pupil of Mrs. Thomas, and Robert Green, pupil of Mrs. A. R. Beach, were other festival winners, who were unable to be present.

State Fair Winners:

"Valse in E Minor" (Chopin), piano solo by Hubert Sewell.

"Tambourin" (Gossec - Gest), two-piano number by Ruth Ann Yunker and Hubert Sewell.

Other state fair winners, who were unable to be present, were: Mary Jo Hale and Aaron Hale of St. Joseph, Mo., pupils of Mrs. Thomas, and Wallace Hunt, pupil of Mrs. Ray Hunt.

Mrs. Henry C. Salveter, state magazine chairman, presented each Junior with a copy of the "Junior Magazine."

Highlighting the music of the day were piano selections played by Bob Overstreet, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Overstreet of this city. His artistic performance of Beethoven's "Sonata" and Mendelssohn's "Sadness of Soul" brought enthusiastic applause and requests for an encore. He then played "My Song," his own composition, dedicated to his mother.

The accomplished pianist is in his junior year at Smith-Cotton high school, and is studying piano under Dr. Basil Gauntlett of Stephens college, Columbia.

Mrs. Anna Huermann Hamilton of Marshall, state historian emiritus of the Missouri Federation of Music clubs, was a special guest. Mrs. Hamilton read to the club members that part of the history of the Missouri federation contributed by the Helen G. Steele Music club, paying tribute to the late Mrs. W. D. Steele, who founded the Ladies' Musical club of Sedalia, twenty-five years prior to the origination of the Missouri federation.

The name of the Ladies' Music club was changed, after Mrs. Steele's death, to the Helen G. Steele Music club, in her honor.

Mrs. Hamilton brought out many interesting facts, going back to the first meeting of the state federation at which Mrs. Steele, then a member of the national board, presided. The Ladies Musical club was hostess to the second annual convention of the state federation which was held in Sedalia in 1919.

Mrs. Hamilton stated that Missouri's contribution to the National Federation of Music clubs, coincident with the beginning of the state federation, was the Junior department, which plan originated with Mrs. Hamilton. The first Junior contests were held in St. Louis in 1921 after which they became a regular part of the M.F.M.C. conventions.

The course of study in Musicianship, used first in Missouri; the Rally, first held in Kansas City; the state fair contests, which originated with Mrs. E. F. Yancey and the late Mrs. Charles C. Evans and the Junior Song—all Missouri contributions—have had a far-reaching influence on the national federation, Mrs. Hamilton said.

The history of the Missouri federation, now being compiled by Mrs. Hamilton, will be preserved in the permanent archives of the Missouri State Historical society at Columbia.

Mrs. Hamilton was a guest at the luncheon for department chairmen which preceded the program.

Navy 'Sinks' Favored Army 14 to 0

Transplanted Game Draws 11,700 Fans

Navy Now Has Four Straight Victories Over Army In Their Annual Grid Classic

By SID FEDER

THOMPSON STADIUM, ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 28—(AP)—Putting the final "whacky" touch to an Army-Navy game that was like no other service scramble in history, Navy's "completely outclassed" footballers all but chased the cadets out of this ball park today and rolled up a smashing 14 to 0 surprise triumph.

A crashing, crushing line that was a credit to line coach Rip Miller and a classy collection of young backs, notably the 150-pound Arkansas atom, freshman Harold Hamberg, produced the surprise package.

Giving the middies a string of four straight victories over the Army for the first time in the half-century history of this ancient classic, the astonishing Navy performance—put on for the entertainment of a mere 11,700 spectators—topped off a series of events leading up to the game the like of which the rivalry had never undergone before.

Play In A Tiny Park

Starting with President Roosevelt's order shifting the game, because of transportation difficulties, from Philadelphia's mammoth municipal stadium, where it annually draws 100,000 fans, to the middie's tiny ball yard on the banks of the Chesapeake, the inter-academy affair has gone through an amazing series of events.

The middie gridders stopped Hank Mazur, Carl Anderson, Bobby Woods (who was a Navy player in last year's game), and Ralph Hill cold, although Mazur was the defensive star of the afternoon, personally wiping three more potential middie touchdowns out with his safety-man work.

Except for the fourth quarter, when freshman "Doug" Kenna, from Jackson, Miss., spearheaded two futile Army drives deep in Navy territory, it was as lopsided as a pretzel.

For three quarters, Army never penetrated Navy territory; for the first half the cadets managed only one fist down and 35 yards rushing, and for the entire game, the West Pointers collected only seven first downs and advanced the ball 179 yards rushing and passing, compared to 11 "firsts" and 289 yards for the inspired mid-shipmen.

Use Statue of Liberty Play

Three times in the first half, Navy knocked at the door before finally getting "in," and they dug deep into the book for some of their offensive "stuff" that bewildered Army, even to coming up with the ancient statue of liberty play which worked twice for 46 yards. After being held on the one-foot line twice and the five yard line another time, the middies sent freshman Joe Sullivan, a 180-pound red head from Pittsburgh's University School, pile-driving through the middle for a half-a-yard and the first score.

Then, midway of the third period, after the first of Oreal Crepeau's two wide field goal tries had missed fire, Hillis Hume, the 180-pound sophomore fullback from Alliance, Ohio, intercepted an Army pass on the cadet 21. On the first play afterward, little Hamberg, who looked like a kid in short pants against every other performer on the field, fired a rifle-shell pitch to tall Ben Martin of Prospect Park, Pa., on the five, and Ben beat the Army defenders to the end zone.

Crepau's sling-shot toe added its second extra point of the day, and the boys could have gone home right there.

Detroit Tigers Dismiss Baker As Manager

Steve O'Neill Former Cleveland Pilot Will Be His Successor

DETROIT, Nov. 28—(AP)—The Detroit Tigers announced today the dismissal of Del Baker as manager and the appointment of Steve O'Neill, former Cleveland Indians pilot, as his successor to head an entirely new board of strategy.

General Manager Jack Zeller said that O'Neill would be assisted as coach by Al Vincent, former manager of Detroit farm clubs, who replaces Marvyn Shea, dismissed with Baker. Charley Gehringer, other Detroit coach, is to enter the nation's armed services this month, and his post will not be filled immediately. Terms with O'Neill were not disclosed.

With Tigers 14 Years

Baker, who guided the Tigers to an unbeaten American League pennant in 1940, was associated with the Detroit club for 14 years as minor league catcher and manager, and as coach and manager here. He succeeded Mickey Cochrane as Tiger pilot in August, 1938, and in four full seasons his teams finished fifth twice, tied for fourth once and won the 1940 pennant in an astounding upset.

O'Neill, a native Pennsylvanian who entered baseball from the coal fields, has been associated with the game continuously for 33 years. His only previous major league managership was at Cleveland, where he succeeded Walter Johnson in August, 1935. He was in turn followed by Oscar Vitt after the Indians had finished fifth and fourth in two years of stewardship.

Nebraska Is Beaten By Kansas State

Second Straight Year Aggies Have Beaten Huskers

By RANDALL BLAKE

LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 28—(AP)—Kansas State roared over Nebraska 19 to 0 today to knock the Cornhuskers into third place in the final Big Six football standings and take over leadership of the second division.

56-Yard Scoring Run

Scoring on a 56-yard run, a blocked kick and a pass, the State outfit, loser of eight straight games before a 7 to 6 victory over Iowa State last week, amazed the slim gathering of 7,000 with their superiority over the home team.

It marked the first time in the history of the gridiron jousting between the two schools that Kansas State had ever won two years in succession. Last year the Aggies grabbed a 12 to 6 win.

Kansas State got out in front in the second period when Francis Gwin faked handing the ball to another back, spun and sped through the middle to romp 56 yards untouched for the score. Earl Williams kicked the point and there the score stood until Kansas State started pouring it on in the final quarter.

That last period started with Nebraska holding the ball on the fourth down on the Husker 24 and Dale Bradley back in punt formation. He fumbled the snapback, picked it up and tried to kick but sub end Bill Engelland knifed in, blocked the ball, picked it up rambled 14 yards for the second touchdown. The try for point failed.

Nebraska Loses Sevenu

Five minutes later Kansas State had a third touchdown, on a ten yard pass from Bill Quick to John Bortka, who stood in a corner of the end zone uncovered. Williams' try for the point went wide. The Aggies had taken the ball on the Husker 20 when a fourth down try for yardage failed.

The season's end thus found Nebraska losing seven games for the first time in the schools history, surrendering second place to Oklahoma and with Kansas State leading Iowa State and Kansas in the second division.

Heisman Trophy To Frank Sinkwich

NEW YORK, Nov. 28 —(AP)— Frank Sinkwich, Georgia's All-America halfback, today was named winner of the Heisman Memorial trophy, annually awarded by the Downtown Athletic club to the nation's outstanding college football player.

Sinkwich won by the largest plurality in the eight-year history of the award, being first in all sections of the country in a vote of the country's sportswriters and broadcasters. He polled 1,059 votes to 218 for Paul Governali of Columbia, who was second.

The Georgia back finished second to Minnesota's Bruce Smith last year.

Hits Broadway

After campaigning successfully in midwest, Jimmy Bivins hits Broadway by being matched with Lee Savold at Madison Square Garden. Cleveland's Negro heavyweight appears to like the big stem despite dimout regulations.

PAUL EVANS, one of Sedalia's best known baseball players, has hung up his glove and spiked shoes for the duration—Paul enlisted and was accepted in the United States Marine Corps. He completed the last season as a member of the New York Giants farm team, Bristol, Tennessee, and made an excellent record.

Nearing the close of the season he received a fractured ankle sliding into second base taking him out of the game at the peak of his career. What his fellow teammates thought of him and what other ball players in the Appalachian League, was well demonstrated in an exhibition game played for the benefit of the injured Evans.

He returned home and waited and waited until his ankle was well, until it was strong enough so that he could pass the hard and tough physical examination of the United States Marines, and then signed up.

John Robert Chesser, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Chesser, 609 West Third street, enlisted with Evans in the Marines. Although Chesser didn't participate in sports, he and Evans attended school together and decided to enlist together.

Paul is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Evans, 620 Wilkerson avenue, and his wife Mrs. Hazel Evans will remain in Sedalia staying with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Jesse R. Thomas, 308 North Quincy avenue.

I guess you football fans of Sedalia know that the unbeaten Missouri Valley eleven at Marshall had several Sedalia players on its squad. There was Cecil Landers, Jimmy Myers and Leland Thomas out for the team and they did see some action although their standing this season was not in the starting lineup.

The Valley was a little upset also over the fact their praises were well advertised but when it came down to facts the 1941 backfield was given the credit and not that backfield of this year which won the games and were all in there pitching. Evidently someone slipped in the publicity angle because the champion 1942 backfield was composed of Alva Baker, a freshman from Marshall who played half back; Gilroy Davidson, Odessa, Mo., the quarterback; Don Kumpy, East High of Kansas City, halfback and Warren Harris, Dexter, Iowa, the full back.

To hear Jimmy Myers tell the story, there isn't even a university eleven that can compare with this little school of Missouri Valley.

Volney Ashford, is the coach of Missouri Valley, and those Sedalians who remember him as former Marshall high school and a former Valley players know his ability.

COACH Albert Steiner, of the Smith-Cotton Tigers basketball team, has announced the schedule for 1942-43 season will be carried out if possible. Fourteen games are scheduled, seven of which are road trips. The contracts for the season call for the games to be played "if possible", otherwise leaving an opening that if no transportation arrangements can be made they will be cancelled.

Indications the the Tigers will have an exceptionally good squad this year, many of the players taking advantage of the W. P. A. Recreational basketball league and plying in that for the past six weeks.

M.C.A.U. Votes To Abandon Minor Sports

Play Doubleheader Games So As To Cut Down On Road Trips

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 28—(AP)—The Missouri College Athletic Union, in a meetings today, voted to abandon minor sports for the duration and arranged a series of basketball game doubleheaders to permit continuation of the sport despite gasoline rationing.

Under the new basketball setup each of the seven conference teams will engage in three doubleheader road games against schools selected in a drawing, and will meet the other trio of loop quintets in twin games on the home court.

Cuts Trip Six To Two

The scheme, proposed by E. F. Kimbrell, Westminster coach, supplants the former double round robin arrangement, and cuts the required road trips from six to two, but permits each school to play a full conference schedule.

Golf and tennis were dropped from the spring athletic program, but the conference representatives voted to hold the annual track carnival at Central College, May 7 and 8.

New M. C. A. U. officers elected at the meeting were: Ralph A. Ginn, Tarkio, president; W. A. Herington, Culver-Stockton, vice president, and George Kline, Central, secretary.

The doubleheader road game schedule; Central at William Jewell, Tarkio and Missouri Valley; Westminister at Central, Culver-Stockton and Tarkio; Culver-Stockton and Westminster; William Jewell at Drury, Westminster and Missouri Valley; Missouri Valley at Culver-Stockton, Drury and Westminster, and Tarkio at Missouri Valley, Drury and William Jewell.

Ohio State Ends Season In A Blaze Of Glory

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 28—(AP)—Ohio State ended its football season by overwhelming the star-studded Iowa Seahawks 41 to 12, before 27,259 fans today. It was the second loss of the season for the powerful Seahawks. Ohio lost only one game in 10 starts.

S-C Tigers Hope To Play Cage Schedule

The Central Missouri Conference Cancelled For The Duration

Fourteen games — seven at home and seven away — consist the Smith-Cotton high school basketball Tigers schedule for the 1942-43 season. The scheduled contracts were made "subject to war changes", it has been announced by Coach Albert Steiner.

This year will find Marshall back on the cage schedule, a team which the Tigers have not met in several years. There is also Warrensburg, and Windsor, all scheduled due to the mileage necessary to be traveled, but the three teams are hard fighters of the court and will make things tough for the Sedalians.

Cut Off Three Teams

Kirksville, Hannibal, Missouri Military Academy, are three strong teams which have been cut for the schedule due to the gasoline rationing and the request of the government to cut down on travel for athletic competition.

"Nobody knows what the government will request, nobody knows just what limitations are going to be made", Coach Steiner said, "hence the contracts have been drawn with the provision that a game can be cancelled if the transportation problem is such a team can not make the trip. However a twenty-four hour notice must be given the team which will be host, thus the basketball fans will be given ample notice there will not be a game".

The schedule:

Dec. 11—Marshall, there.
Dec. 15—Windsor, here.
Dec. 18—Clinton, here.
Jan. 8—Jeff City, there.
Jan. 15—Columbia, here.
Jan. 19—Warrensburg, there.
Jan. 26—Marshall, here.
Jan. 29—Clinton, there.
Feb. 2—Windsor, there.
Feb. 5—California, here.
Feb. 9—Warrensburg, here.
Feb. 12—California, there.
Feb. 19—Jeff City, here.
Feb. 23—Columbia, there.

Then Central Missouri Conference of which Sedalia, Jefferson City, Columbia, Kirksville, Hannibal, and Missouri Military Academy are members have cancelled all activities for the duration of the war. All contracts have been postponed until after the war and at that time will again be carried on it was indicated by officials of the conference.

Wild Game Can Help Missouri Through War

Muskrat And Even Groundhog Are A 'New Delicacy'

By Howard Flieger

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 28—(AP)—A meat shortage? Meat is where you find it.

Ever eat a muskrat? Or groundhog?

Ten million pounds of dressed wild meat will be harvested by sportsmen from the state's fields and streams this year. And conservation officials think Missourians—forced to cut down on beef and pork—will find "new delicacies" among the furbearers they usually hunt for sport.

This year's bag of wild game, at 30 cents a pound, will mean a $3,000,000 supplement to the state's war-restricted supply of meat. It will include 1,750,000 quail, 4,000,000 squirrels, 3,000,000 rabbits and 336,000 wild ducks and geese.

Do Not Be Wasteful

Conservation Director I. T. Bode urged that "every pound of game and fish legally taken be not wasted, but be made to replace a pound of beef or pork on the family table.

"Game species such as quail, waterfowl, squirrels and bass, are taking about all the pressure they can stand now," he said. "Even one year of indiscriminate hunting or fishing would deplete breeding stocks of these species to the extent that they would not furnish their normal supply of food, much less a contribution to the war food program.

But if sportsmen and their friends will let their food imaginations wander beyond their usual tastes of the conservation department believes there are millions of pounds of wild meat waiting for the state's dinner tables.

On Atlantic Coast Tables

Muskrat, for example.

Bode said the common furbearer is relished as food on the Atlantic coast, though it is rarely eaten in Missouri. Trappers of Maryland annually market a million muskrats which reach dining rooms as "marsh hare."

Raccoon and opossum, usually taken only for fur in Missouri, are "thoroughly relished in some parts of the country," he said, and the groundhog could add a million pounds of meat to the state's wartime reserve.

The little "woodchuck" is hunted chiefly for sport in this state but Bode said it "loves to feed on corn and, when young and properly cooked, it makes a tasty dish."

"Now is the time," he concluded, "for hunters and fishermen to use skill and discrimination. Make every pound of wildlife count on the family table.

"Wildlife can help us through this war just as it helped the pioneer family through lean years."

Not only are the sailors boxing ready for the unexpected, but so are the spectators—their buddies aboard a cruiser somewhere in the Pacific war zone. Life jackets and steel helmets are worn by all but the combatants, and they could get them in a jiffy.

Georgia Quick To Accept A Rose Bowl Bid

Triumph Over Their Georgia Tech Rival A Great Comeback

By ROMNEY WHEELER

ATHENS, Ga., Nov. 28—(AP)—Georgia heard sweet music today—a brass band blaring: "California, here I come" And followed it to a New Year's day engagement in Pasadena's fabulous Rose Bowl.

The invitation came—and was instantly accepted—a few minutes after Georgia's great football team thundered over unbeaten, untied Georgia Tech, 34-0, before 45,000 howling fans.

The triumph, a spectacular comeback from Georgia's defeat by Auburn a week ago, made Wallace Butts' Bulldogs again one of the claimants to a national championship.

Today's conquest was the one which Georgia was thinking about, when Auburn came up on the blind side for an upset. Today Georgia was going to win, and nothing Tech threw in the way could stall that drive.

Georgia was leading 7-0, before 10 minutes had elapsed: piled across two more touchdowns to gain a 20-0 advantage by halftime.

From there on there was no question of the outcome. Georgia put across a fourth touchdown in the third quarter and added a fifth on a pass-interception to round out the worst beating suffered by Tech in their series since 1931, when the Bulldogs won, 37-7.

All-America Frankie Sinkwich, playing his last regularly-scheduled game for Georgia, took the spotliht from Tech's freshman pint o'magic, Clint Castleberry, as Georgia's line clamped down on the fleet-footed southpaw and held him to a net of eight yards rushing.

Sinkwich gained 72 yards rushing and 107 passing to run his unofficial yardage in total offense to 2,174—an all-time record.

For Georgia, it was on the 10th victory in 11 ames this season, and clinched the Bulldogs' first Southeastern Conference unofficial football championship.

Two Upsets Of Leading Clubs In 'Y' Program

'Special Deliveries' And S.-C. Tigers Are Both On Losing End

Two upsets came in the W. P. A. Recreational Athletic program at the "Y" gym this week when the Smith-CottonTigers basketball team bowed to the Missouri Pacific Reclaimers, and the Post Office Special Deliveries, women's volleyball team dropped three games to the Smithton women. The Smithton aggregation took three straight games from the "S. D's".

The Smithton team has replaced the Social Security team in the women's volleyball league. The team took over the standing of the Social Security team which had fifteen straight losses. Their entry into the league and their first class playing means plenty of competition for the other seven teams.

Second Round To Start

Second round games in the Women's Volleyball League will start next Friday night. There will be four rounds of play in this league consisting of eighty-four games for the season. The first round was concluded with the Post Office "S. D's" taking the honors.

Next Wednesday night will complete the first round of the Men's Basketball League. There are three rounds scheduled for this season giving each team a play of twenty-one games for the season. At present the first round is tied between the Smith-Cotton Tigers and the Sacred Heart team.

Reverend Father Stack coach of the men's basketball team hopes to break the tie next week.

As a preliminary game to the Women's Volleyball League games Friday night the Hughesville basketball team played the Smithton A. C. team with Hughesville taking the larger end of a score of 35 to 26. Richard Meyer of Hughesville was high-point man with 14 points while Demand of Smithton was a close contender with fourteen points.

Invite Georgia Tech To The Cotton Bowl

DALLAS, Tex., Nov. 28—(AP)—Georgia Tech tonight was invited to play in the Cotton Bowl, Earl B. Smith, president of the Cotton Bowl Athletic Association, announced.

A decision by Georgia Tech officials will not be made before tomorrow as faculty permission must be obtained from the team to play in a bowl game.

In this Tech is similar to the University of Texas, champion of the southwest conference, which was automatically invited to be host team but has yet to obtain faculty permission.

A decision on the Texas invitation will not be forthcoming before Monday.

An Alert Oklahoma A and M Smashes Detroit University

DETROIT, Nov. 28 —(AP)— An alert Oklahoma A and M eleven, intercepting ten passes, rolled to a 33 to 6 victory over the University of Detroit today, handing the Titans their worst defeat at home since Gus Dorais began coaching here. A crowd of fewer than 5,000 fans watched.

INVEST IN VICTORY!

Our boys can take the War to the enemy, if we back them up with ships and tanks and guns! But that takes money!

Help your Government to put the tools of war into the hands of our soldiers by purchasing War Savings Bonds and Stamps. And remember . . . just one Bond can't lick the Axis any more than just one gun! It takes millions of Americans buying War Savings Bonds and Stamps every pay day!

Bonds cost $18.75 and up . . . and they pay you back one-third more in only 10 years! Stamps cost 10¢, 25¢, and up . . . soon total the price of a Bond if bought regularly.

Help our boys on the fighting fronts wherever they may be! Buy War Savings Bonds as an investment for yourself and your country.

CZECHO-SLOVAKIA	7,000	THE NETHERLANDS	300
FRANCE	2,000	NORWAY	110
GREECE	820

YUGOSLAVIA:

Whole towns wiped out by Nazi bombs from the air; street crowds machine-gunned; children executed as Communists.

GREECE:

In Greece the Nazis save ammunition — and wear and tear on the hangman's rope — by simply letting the people starve to death — from 1700 to 2000 a day (Collier's March 21, 1942) — while Germany guts the country of foodstuffs.

BELGIUM:

The people of Belgium are starving. (Official press dispatches.)

NORWAY:

In Oslo, Norwegian men and women patriots are subjected to unspeakable torture and cruelties at Nazi Gestapo headquarters — the fearsome "House of Dreadful Night."

FRANCE:

Innocent hostages in batches of hundreds have been shot in reprisal for French patriots purging — here and there — a Nazi invader or so.

ENGLAND:

44,417 innocent men, women and children civilians have been slaughtered by Nazi bombs. (To July 1, 1942, Official British Communiqué.)

POLAND:

More than 200,000 Poles have been murdered in cold blood; one million others driven from their homes, allowed to take with them only one suit-case . . . deported (on 20 minutes' notice in many instances) . . . their cherished possessions given to strangers. (Official Polish Government-in-exile "White Book" — March 18, 1942.) Those murdered included Catholic priests, women and children. 60,000 of the 200,000 were tortured to death in Concentration Camps; — another 500,000 Poles have been starved to death;— and 1,000,000 Poles have been deported to forced labor in Germany.

CZECHO-SLOVAKIA:

Official German broadcast, Berlin, June 10, 1942: — "All men in the Czecho-Slovak town of Lidice have been shot, the women sent to concentration camps, the children placed in "correctional" institutions, and the town itself leveled to the ground." This — plus a total of 1293 additional Czechs executed by German firing squads (Associated Press, July 4, 1942) — was the Nazi reprisal for the purging of Heydrich "the Hangman" by Czech patriots. The "Hangman" and his Gestapo gang of murderers had executed several hundred people before Czech bullets ended his organized butchery career. Having lived by the gun, he died by the gun — age 38.

NOTE: (At this point the Germans announced that still more Czechs would be executed to fully "expiate" the purged Heydrich and on July 13, 1942 the Nazi "score" had risen to 1,500 — 124 of these being WOMEN ! !

THE NETHERLANDS

On May 14, 1940 Nazi bombers attacked the defenseless city of Rotterdam and in 20 minutes — using lawn-mower technique — killed 30,000 people, maimed 65,000 others, and blew up practically all the buildings in two square miles in the heart of the city. THIS MASS MURDER OF INNOCENT MEN, WOMEN AND CHILDREN TOOK PLACE FOUR (4) HOURS AFTER THE DUTCH LAID DOWN THEIR ARMS ! ! !

THE JEWS:

More than 1,000,000 Jews in Axis-dominated European countries have been systematically massacred; 700,000 in Poland and Lithuania; 125,000 in Rumania; and 200,000 in White Russia and the Ukraine. In addition, hundreds of thousands have died of disease and starvation. (World Jewish Congress, London, June 29, 1942.) This is the Nazi systematic extermination of a race — "non-Aryan". THEY HAVE THREATENED TO EXTERMINATE OR DEPORT EVERY JEW IN AXIS-DOMINATED EUROPE ! ! !

At Odessa, 25,000 Jews were crowded into barracks and machine-gunned. The barracks were then set on fire. Heinrich Himmler, chief of the German Gestapo, ordered the execution of 86,000 Jews in the Minsk area of Russia. (United Press, March 16, 1942.) All Jews — 5000 — in a town of 20,000 population in southeastern Poland have been executed. (United Press, July 8, 1942.)

Slightly Lower Trend On Stocks For Week

By BERNARD S. O'HARA

NEW YORK, Nov. 28—(AP)—The stock market today finished its third consecutive declining week with peace issues providing the main buying support and many leaders shifting apathetically over a slightly lower route.

In the short favored shares responded with fair advances to implications of the French fleet's mass suicide at Toulon and the good news from Russia and North Africa. While war shares never exhibited any real weakness, the majority was neglected from the start and many emerged down fractionally.

It was the slowest Saturday since Oct. 17, transfers amounting to 283,190 shares compared with 310,700 a week ago. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was off.1 of a point at 39.8 and on the week showed a net loss of .3. Of 646 individual stocks traded, 218 were off, 208 up and 220 unchanged.

New tops for the year were registered for Gotham Hosiery, whose directors voted a 25-cent dividend, first since May, 1930; Sears Roebuck, Pepsi-Cola, Coca-Cola, Eastern Air Lines and Pan American Airways.

Wheat Loses Some Of Early Advance

By FRANKLIN MULLIN

CHICAGO, Nov. 28—(AP)—Rye prices rose a cent a bushel and wheat gained almost that much today before broadened buying subsided and some of the advance was lost.

Buying came from mills and dealers covering previous short sales, activity which some brokers said may have been inspired by belief that flour ceilings will be raised next week. Later, evening-up operations for the week end and liquidation of December contracts caused a reaction.

Wheat closed ¼ lower to ⅝ higher compared with yesterday, Dec. $1.25¼, May $1.29 ⅞-¾; corn ¼-½ higher, December 83 ⅞-84, May 89⅛-¼; oats ⅜-⅝ up; rye ¼-½ up and soybeans ¼-½ lower.

AAA Committeemen Met On Tuesday

Forty Pettis County Triple A community committeemen met Tuesday and heard talks by Calvin Holloway, Triple A field man, William Shotwell, soil conservation representative and J. U. Morris, county extension agent, on the Triple A program for next year. They spoke particularly on production of soil conservation and stated that the goals for the county will be announced later. Farmers who want to know how to plan are asked to consult their own community committeeman.

In the afternoon the group went to the Frank Fair farm to receive training on running contours.

Ray W. Hunt was re-elected president of the Sedalia Boys' Work Council at a recent meeting of the council. Other officers re-elected are: Honorary president, Dr. Cord Bohling; vice-president, Richard Keenan; secretary, Irwin Raut; treasurer, C .L. Hanley.

A report, made by Mr. Raut reads as follows:

"Conditions have changed very materially in the past 12 months. Most of the men and older boys are employed or in the armed forces, but the women and younger boys and girls are attending the community house in larger numbers.

"Over 200 rugs, quilts, and comforts have been made by the women. Most of these articles are used in the homes of the women who made them, but some are sold.

"The kitchen is a new feature. This is being equipped with a 3-burner coal oil stove, and a complete set of kitchen utensils and dishes. The kitchen will be used by the women at noon and also as a demonstration center to instruct girls in preparing and serving meals.

"The library has been enlarged. The community house has recently received two fine collections of books; one from Mrs. John Taylor, and the other from Mrs. C. I. Taylor. Mrs. Taylor also gave a handsome bookcase. Many of the books can be used as collateral reading by high school students.

"The wood-working shop has been closed temporarily on account of increased employment of the men and older boys. One team dropped out of the Twilight Ball League for the same reason.

"The Pig club has been a success. All the boys made good money, though some failed to reinvest part of their earnings in other pigs. Clyde Litz deserves special mention. Starting two years ago with one $3.00 pig, he now has 4 pigs, a heifer, a horse, two lots paid for, and four more under contract. We have bought 27 pigs for 17 boys.

"Mrs. Kinkead deserves credit for the success of the community house. Mrs. Kinkead taught in the building when it was a public school. She has skill, tact, and consecrated Christian character, all of which are needed. Her services are made available through the co-operation of the W.P.A.

Santa Claus REPORTS for DUTY!

THE most important Christmas Gift Giving season in all our history — when no one you love dare be forgotten — starts officially tomorrow with the first formal appearance of Old St. Nick. Emerging from behind the scenes where he has been working overtime to stock the shelves of our stores with gifts for young and old, for those on the home front and those on the fighting front, Santa takes command to guide you to the perfect solution for every gift giving problem. "Shop without delay. Start tomorrow," is his advice for . . .

Sedalia--Gift Center of Central Missouri

Thousands of Practical Gift-Giving Items Await Selection Of People In This Vicinity

The Spirit of Christmas prevails throughout Sedalia stores --- Trend to practical, sensible Gifts This Wartime Christmas Season

Sedalia stores are all aglitter with bright, practical Christmas gift suggestions as Sedalia merchants have planned weeks and months ahead for this greatest Christmas Season in all history. Sedalia stores are well stocked to take care of the needs of Central Missourians.

As you wend you way, beginning tomorrow, through the crowded aisles of stores that sparkle with the freshness of their gift giving inspiration, you will marvel at the ingenuity of Old St. Nick who has worked hand in glove with Sedalia merchants in choosing the items Central Missourians will want this Christmas. He has provided the means for making everyone, regardless of your budget, happy this Christmas.

Most Important Season of All

Hailing the Yuletide of 1942 as the most important Gift Giving Season in all our history—when no one you love dare be forgotten—Santa cautions all to brook no delays in starting their gift shopping. Tomorrow is not too early.

The long hours of each day that he has worked overtime in preparation for this most important of all Yuletide seasons also involved the job of making sure that the men in our armed forces overseas were generously remembered by no later than November 1st.

Now there yet remains the boys—and also the girls—in our armed forces in camps and barracks on this side of the seas, to whom we must pay a visit without fail in your behalf. These are over and above and in addition to the little boys and the little girls—and all the folks at home, on whose health and happiness our fighting men depend for their support.

Starts Earlier This Year

Christmas arrived much earlier this year for the boys overseas. Christmas really arrives tomorrow, on the Home Front, though December 25 is still weeks away. There is a lot of gift choosing and a lot of gift mailing to be done.

And if mailing is required it is especially important that gift selections be made without delay. With Uncle Sam's transportation system taxed by the urgencies of the times, and with post office playing Santa's delivery man for those in the service, twice the normal time should be allowed for postal delivery of gift packages.

This Christmas is a challenge to every American, as it has been a challenge—successfully met by Santa Claus. It challenges every American to show how, despite the war, the precious tradition of the Yuletide flows on with all its cheerful vigor. It challenges us all to demonstrate that the unparalleled American capacity for bringing joy to all those who wish "peace on earth," and who have "good will toward men," flourishes more brilliantly than ever.

Does His Part

Santa Claus has done his part. working overtime he has managed to stock the stores with vast assortments of gifts from which to choose, despite the fact that many basic materials required for manufacture of Christmas gifts have gone off to war along with many men.

The miracle of this Christmas will be found in the selections of precious things, practical things, cheer inspiring things for youngsters and for oldsters, that await the early shopper.

Many desired items—which will be attainable only by those who act upon Santa's special 1942 advice to brook no delay—may vanish from the market entirely following the Christmas season, or soon thereafter.

These are items made of the strategic materials required by our fighting forces, principally metals and also many of wood.

The supply of the so highly prized for gift-giving electrical appliances, for example, is surprisingly good, but nevertheless definitely limited. There are radios, but don't wait too long to shop for them.

Use Layway Plan

Jewelers and furniture dealers urge gift shoppers to use the layaway plan immediately for wanted gifts from among those they have in stock.

Most fortunately for the children—to whom, after all, Christmas is most important—Toyland is a veritable miracle-land in which the ingenuity and the foresight have combined to provide a wonderful opportunity to make them the happiest generation of youngsters in the land, but here again the advice is shop early.

The gift giving trend is strongly and most happily in the direction of wearables for everyone—men, women, boys and girls—with a dominant note of the practical directing the selection.

Long Lasting Gifts

Fortunately, fashion, utilizing its limitless ingenuity, has seized upon new materials and what is available of traditional materials, to convert the practical into the beautiful and to make the gift of wearables as full of gaiety as they are of usefulness.

This trend emphasizes the giving of long lasting gifts with the quality of continuing to say Merry Christmas to the lucky recipient for weeks and months and maybe years. The trend includes the vastly increased attention being given to things for the home, be they important pieces of furniture, decorative objects or just small gadgets which serve to make living a little more comfortable.

After all, those who will remain on the Home Front for the duration will be spending more time in the home, and the one who gives something to make the home more comfortable, more attractive, is giving a gift of true Christmas cheer.

Emphasis in giving is on the "long lasting" in a dozen different ways this year. Many of the ways to give long lasting gifts to everyone you love, yourself included, really involves no extra expenditure of money at all.

Some Examples

By way of example, you will be giving yourself and all men who love freedom, a gift that is important to Victory, if you:

Carry a bigger share of packages. That will help save rubber and tires for our fighting men.

Choose something warm to wear for someone on your list, for that will help save fuel.

Make your choice of gifts definite and final so there will be no need for returning or exchanging them. This saves waste in many ways.

Give what is probably the most important gift of all, and certainly a gift that will last not only for the duration but one that will come back to you and yours with interest—give a War Savings Bond.

Take your Christmas Shopping Change in War Savings Stamps.

Just Picture It

Men with a mania for photography will applaud the gift of a photograph album. Available in book or looseleaf form, a choice may be had of any number of insignias embossed on the covers.

Double Checked

A pocket size checker set is an amusing Christmas gift idea for that man in the service. It comes complete: board, checkers and all, in a simulated leather case, the size of a cigarette-tin.

There's More Reason to Shop Early Now, Than Ever Before!

Santa's calling the roll—and every wise Christmas shopper will answer promptly! Early shopping is Santa's order of the day for better reasons than in any past year; and the most joyous giving will be that which was planned for . . . not tomorrow . . . but Today!

This year's Christmas money must buy practical, quality things—and that means taking enough shopping time to permit really careful selection.

Cooperating with wartime "regulations"—whether they be written or unwritten—is something every one considers a personal duty now. Since that includes carrying small Christmas packages home, allowance may have to be made too for additional time for one or more extra bus or trolley trips!

And "Shop Early" takes on added "mail early" significance this Yuletide.

As for the boys in service—not an overseas gift should be on American soil this late, for November 1st was the last date for shipping to them in time for Christmas delivery. And twice the usual mailing time must be allowed for gifts to men in service still within our shores.

Then too, because transportaton curtailments are going to mean that fewer folks will travel, the mails will have to be loaded with gifts—which they'd ordinarily receive in person.

Among the advantages to be gained by shopping early is the fact that there are still many gift items which once gone won't be duplicated. Since they're available in only limited numbers selections must be made quickly if one is to be able to give at least some precious "no more to be had" gifts.

No one should need more incentive for early shopping! Yet also to be considered are the folks who keep Christmas merchandise moving from warehouse to store to shoppers' arms; the postal workers who will deliver gifts at their final destination. Their load is lightened when Christmas shopping is staggered over a longer period of time.

It's more fun to shop early—and more fun after. Leisurely gift wrapping will permit more attractive, more secure packages: and there'll be plenty of time for the tree—and a party too.

Use this Christmas Gift guide as an index of where to get just the right thing at just the right price for every one on everyone else's gift list! It tells, in thrilling stories, beautiful pictures and informative ads what to get where, and what to pay and it also tells of gifts one need only write away or phone for: because mail and phone shopping saves precious auto tires, gasoline . . . and time!

It's good to know that gifts always purchased with Time Payment facilities can still be bought that way—with only slight adjustment in line with wartime requirements.

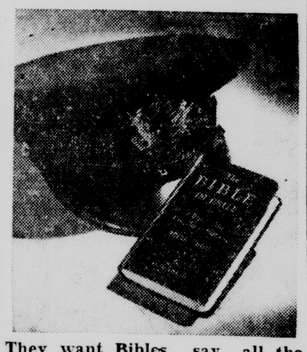
From every angle it looks as though America is going to see its dearest tradition carried on in the very spirit we're fighting to make live forever.

It's going to be a wonderful Christmas—most wonderful for those who plan their shopping early—do their shopping early—and wrap and mail in ample time to make this the kind of Christmas they always want their loved ones to enjoy.

Choosing Gifts for Men in Service Easy, for They What They Want

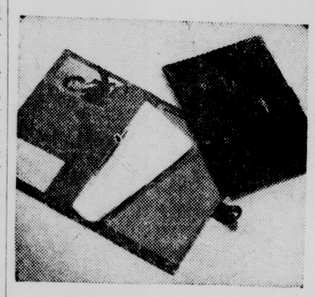
For Army, Navy men, diaries rate high. One called a "Handy-book" contains service information, room for snapshots and autographs, deserves a place in every service gift package.

Army, Navy, Air Corps insignia, as you wish, on this vacuum pen and pencil set, complete with leather case, to fulfill the gifts hopes of many a man now in the service. He'll write if you give.



They want Bibles, say all the questionnaires—small ones to be carried in the pocket. Here's a handy digest titled "The Bible in Brief." That regulation dress cap also is on the soldier's "preferred list."

More Than One, As Many as Four, in one package is the way to send gifts to service men. Most things they want and need are small and inexpensive but very useful. For example, the gift kit pictured above includes sewing kit, money belt and flashlight. You can make up your own package of selected gifts but why not be safe with those planned to a purpose.



Something to write home about is this stiff-backed kit filled with stationery, and with compartments for pictures, calendar, etc.

Waterproof Watches top the list of gifts wanted by men in the service. Choose one with a sweep second hand. The model above is of the finest.

Leather Wallets—make sure they have a place for a picture and room for cards—also are on the preferred list for service giving.

Portrait Photograph Preferred As This Year's Mail-Away Gift

Growing more popular than ever before in the history of gift giving, this season, is the portrait photograph, which only the professional photographer can make satisfactorily.

The increasing popularity of the portrait photograph as a Christmas gift, is not difficult to trace. In the first place, it rises to a preferred position among the things the man in the service wants. In the second place, it serves on the home front to substitute for those personal visits between families during the Yuletide, which are going to be most difficult to make this year because of restrictions on transportation.

Essentially the portrait photograph is a gift of intense personalization, as in the instance of the sweetheart of the soldier or sailor who is far from home and unable to get back for the holiday. Likewise it is the intensely personal gift in which parents of grown children of their own, take so much pride.

In reverse, the portrait photograph this year becomes the prized gift from the young man in service, to his mother, who will cherish that picture of him in uniform for ever.

Most portrait photographers are becoming busier each day we approach Christmas. Arrangements for an early sitting therefore are urged upon those who plan an individual or a family group picture as a gift to friends and relatives this year.

Make It Thrilling Week of Surprises For Men in Service

Want to make it a thrilling week of daily surprises for your man in the service, this Christmas?

Then why not use this inexpensive plan:

Start well in advance of December 25th, with a Christmas card "just to let you know that Santa Claus is on his way.'

Drop in a store next day and address an already Christmas-wrapped package of cigarettes.

On the third day, send him one of the cleverly designed packages of shower-soap, purchasable for a dollar or less, and on the fourth, a ready-packaged-for-mailing box of razor blades.

The sixth day, send him a photograph of yourself, and on the seventh ,a pair of regulation army socks marked—"do not open until Christmas Day," containing the major gift from you to him.

Or vary the plan to suit yourself. There are so many gifts he can use, and so many of them cost so little.

Allow Double Time For Mailing of Photograph

Time should be allowed for inscribing a message on the picture, for framing and for mailing, with the caution that twice the normal mailing time is going to have to be allowed this year in order to make sure the portrait reaches its destination before the holiday.

Portrait photographers specialize in proper packaging for safe mailing of photographs, and therefore it is best to have them do the mailing. They also are experts in framing and can help you to make a proper selection if your plan to have the photograph framed.

Half Frame Mirrors

When doing your Christmas shopping, look for the new "half-frame" mirrors. The frame covers the lower edge and goes halfway to the top on the sides. They look well in rooms furnished in period furniture.

Plan Lighting Yule Tree Now

Need Be No Dim-Out Of The Traditional Cheer

There need be and must be no dim-out this year of the Christmas Tree—traditional and most cherished symbol of the Yuletide—though manufacture of strings of colored lights has stopped in the name of Victory.

Those families that equipped themselves with tree-lighting sets during past years, will find the carry-over equipment coming to the rescue, and early shoppers for new sets may find some still in the stores. Replacement bulbs are available in satisfactory assortments but limited quantities.

Those who lack or fail to find the safe electrical tree-lighting equipment, may through use of ingenuity, still manage to overcome the hazards of old fashioned candles by utilizing bullet-type reading lambs or bed lamps hidden behind living room chairs, with their light directed on the tree.

Christmas tree ornaments of which there are plenty, and traditional tinsel, have a great power of light reflection and will, with the aid of lambs directed upon them, give off a brilliant Christmas effect.

Lighted trees, it is suggested, should not be placed at windows this year in dim-out areas, but rather in an inside corner of the room. Windows should be shaded.

Here's Gift That Will Pave Way to Victorious New Year

All wrapped in red, white and blue—having won Santa's salute as the outstanding Christmas gift of the year—is the War Bond. And there are many advantages in choosing it to give those who rank highest on one's Christmas list.

War Bonds are so easy to shop for: Their size, color and "fit" are always right: Many retailers, and every bank in town has them for sale.

War Bonds are a gift for the future—because held until they mature their value will be greater than their actual cost.

And War Bonds are the most tangible way of saying, "I in giving, you in receiving this Christmas gift, help to preserve the joyous tradition of Christmas for which we're fighting now . . ."

Not everyone rates a War Bond—but anyone can be started toward the purchase of one with a Stamp Album partially filled with War Stamps in the ten cent to $5 denominations; neatly incased in a fine leather or inexpensive holder.

One of the most charming ways of giving Christmas gift War Stamps is in a made-up boutonniere, corsage, bracelet or hair-do nosegay which can easily be taken apart (if the recipient can bear to give up wearing it), and the stamps of which they're fashioned pasted into an Album.

Whether or not War Bonds and Stamps are chosen to give as Christmas Gifts, one thing is certain: and that is, that in buying gifts with which to spread yuletide cheer, everyone will remember to take some change in War Stamps with every purchase—to pave the way for a Victorious New Year!

Plan a Package of Gifts For Man in the Service; Just One Is Not Enough

Choose Several From Among Small, Compact, Functional, Inexpensive Things Surveys Show He Wants

The "Yuletide Priorities Administration" gives the man in the armed services an exclusive A-1 rating in the Christmas Gift Giving list for this year, by popular acclaim. "Gift Canteens" featuring complete assortments of gifts wanted by soldiers, sailors and marines have been allotted the most accessible shopping spaces in virtually all of the stores in town, thus making the task of selection easy for you.

There are two very important things that everyone who is planning a gift package for the service man, must bear in mind this year:

First, the boys have made it very clear that their preference is for small, compact and functional gifts.

Second, twice the normal mailing time must be allowed by gift givers who want to make sure that their packages reach the boys before Christmas Day.

Stress on care necessary in wrapping and addressing the package blends in importance with early mailing time to insure prompt and accurate and safe delivery. All of this means there must be no delay in choosing the gifts (plural) that are to convey your Christmas Greetings with love, to that fighting man.

"Gifts" in the plural sense is used deliberately, for with very few exceptions the things the boys prefer are comparatively inexpensive, making way for the selection of several, instead of just a single gift. Most "Gift Canteens" are in fact featuring packages of several ready-selected gifts, chosen for their compliance with service regulations and for their ability to satisfy the studied hopes of the boys who are to receive them.

Even waterproof, shock-proof watches, which rate second only to cartons of cigarettes, on almost every one of the many surveys that have been made of the service man's Christmas desires, may be had at surprisingly modest prices, if you shop early enough to find one of the sturdy little models. Those with sweep second hands are preferred but the supply is limited. The same is true of the small portable battery operated radios, almost equally high in favor.

And though either of these items may come close to exhausting the budget, there will still be enough money left to make it "gifts" instead of "a gift" if you choose to add but one or two items from the many others most popularly desired.

Take the items listed among the wearables, for example, for use in amplifying and dressing up their regular army issues. These include socks, shirts, underwear, handkerchiefs, sweaters and an extra regulation GI cap with proper service insignia.

THIS shaving apron, holding all the necessary items for morning ablutions, is a boon to service men in tents or shelfless barrack rooms. It ties around the waist. Also suitable as a gift for a man who does a lot of overnight train traveling.

Select With Care

But great care must be taken to select items satisfying the regulations of the branch in which the man serves. Clerks in "Gift Canteens" and in men's wear stores can give you accurate help here.

Take those other items, which might be characterized as the useful, but not wearable, like sewing kits, shoe shining kits, razor blades and sharpeners, pen and pencil sets and writing kits with stiff backs to furnish a solid surface; windshielded cigarette lighters, fitted toilet cases, wallets with insignia and overnight bags for use on furlough.

These too are comparatively inexpensive items which afford everyone a marvelous opportunity to make it a package of "gifts" instead of a single gift.

Some Want Bible

But the list of suggestions is not yet exhausted, for the wants and needs of the boys in the service, so overwhelmingly functional, reaches powerfully into the realm of the spiritual also.

Their constantly reiterated desire for pocket editions of the Bible, for religious medals and and Rosaries, give still greater opportunity for diversification of the multiple-gift package that should be planned for every one.

Yes they do want things to eat too, but not many, for they are the best fed soldiers in the world. Sweets for a quick treat and for sharing with the other boys, will be welcomed. But sending perishable and difficult-to-serve delicacies is definitely frowned upon.

Gift Giving Pattern

The Christmas hopes of the men in our service, for the most part functional, inspire a pattern so obvious no one should have difficulty in making it a great event for every one of them.

The pattern suggests something to wear, something to help him keep neat and clean, something to amuse, and something to help him keep in touch with home.

Finally, the universal desire of the men for photographs of loved ones, is eloquent of the spirit of their service. Every gift package for a man in the service should also contain portraits or snapshots of the folks back home.

Kept On a Leash

Straying gloves need no longer be a hazard to their owners—not if they have a glove guard to protect them. The attractive ornamentation of a favorite simulated stone tops a gold-plated chain through which the gloves are held securely to handbag or muff.

Giddy Giving Gives Way to Individuality, Utility, Lasting Quality, When It Comes To Saying Merry Christmas to Practical Women

By VIVIAN FREEMAN

This is one Christmas when giddy giving is definitely out! Though gifts for women should have charm, individuality and femininity—they must be really useful, practical and durable—not only of lasting quality, but the kind that don't require time-consuming pampering.

Easy to care for; easy to fit into her way of life, and easy on the eyes; that's the shopping formula down-pat for those who want to express the true 1942 Christmas spirit in their giving.

Every woman's first concern this winter is—keeping warm Whether duty calls for her being behind an office desk; in her home; in war plant or classroom—she'll have to endure occasional heatless days and lower temperatures day-in and day-out, due to wartime demands on the nation's fuel supply.

One gift of gifts this year, to warm her heart—and body—is the quilted robe, pretty, patterned and practical as it can be!

She just can't have too many sweaters; and the shawl's been revived as a fashionably purposeful accessory. Plaids, other brilliant patterns and monotones in wool and velveteen accompany daytime clothes, while scintillating fabrics and startling colors will warm cold shoulders after dark. Other heat generators are wool hose—bed sock, anklet or full length. fur lined gloves; fuzzy boudoir slippers and brilliant jackets to ensemble with skirts and slacks.

Up to Fur Coat

Depending on how generous one can be, the wearable cold-weather gifts range from "red flannels" to a fur coat! And fur accessories and sure to mage dreams come true—in the form of muff, stole or hat.

She may never get near a scki slide—but she'll be delighted with a ski suit this winter, to be worn in city or country for fun in the snow, wheeling the baby, long distance walking to market, and for civilian defense duties such as air raid warden, salvage collection service and first aid courses.

No one need cast away the idea of traditional Christmas giving, because endless numbers of such gifts have already answered the down-to-earth requirements of this year's well chosen gift.

No More Luxury

Jewelry is more than a luxury: one effective piece can make a very simple frock extend its appropriateness for dressy wear too. Compacts and manicure kits, perfumes and bath accessories mean more than ever because not only are they aids to good grooming—they have a capacity for reaffirming a woman's faith in herself; and revitalize her when she's overtired.

There never is any doubt about a woman of any age wanting pretty handkerchiefs—and the new charm of government regulation-abiding lingerie makes panties, undies and gowns rate stronger than ever in popularity.

With her slacks (wonderful gifts too for home lounging and answering alerts)—with her separate skirts and suits, she'll need blouses aplenty. White ones and colorful; monotones and patterned; tailored and dressy—the finely made blouse is a preferred gift; especially if it has a pantie-bottom and won't pull out at the waist!

To make much of a limited wardrobe, every maid and matron can use to advantage colorful gloves, capacious handbags and neckwear frills provide new thrills for last season's dresses. And who is to deny that hosiery is one of this Christmas's most precious gifts, whether it be hard-to-get nylon, newly perfected rayon, or fine lisle in winter's leg-flattering tones.

Don't Forget Bond

Not to be overlooked are gifts of leather—from eagle-buckled belts and tiny flashlight-key rings to luggage she'll carry on short hops to see her hero in camp.

Whatever her gift, she'll be doubly overjoyed to find the gift within a gift—of a War Bond. And War Stamps are tiny enough to importantly tuck in the toe of her Christmas stocking or to put in her gift handbag instead of the usual "good luck" money.

It's gifts like those tabulated above—and they have countless counterpart in all the shops about town—which show that their giver knows the P's and Q's of Christmas giving for '42—in terms of Practicability and Quality that will be lasting reminders of thoughtful generosity.

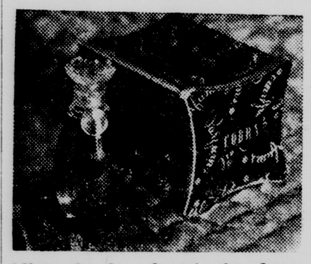
The Bedtime Story this Christmas is one of prettiness and warmth. Encircled is a lace trimmed rayon satin bed jacket with fan pleated sleeves. Standing guard against chilly nights is the flower patterened quilted rayon satin robe. Other lovely gifts for sleepers and readers-in-bed are the lace encrusted gown (left), and the eyelet trimmed gown with its very own bed jacket, (center).

Utilitarian Ski-Suits are out in front this year for giving to any girl, whether she's a sportswoman or not. They're warm, practical, perfect for shopping or Air Warden work. Mannishly tailored of gabardine made of napthalated wool, here's a type to choose.



Allure for her, beauty for dressing table—provided by perfume.

Old Fashioned Bouquet of soap for bathtime.

"Patriotic," sentimental, new Beauty Box for women on or off duty.

Quilting Party

Quilted robes offer warm Christmas appeal for the cold winter months ahead. The perfect gift item for every woman from six to sixty; they come in many styles and colors. They may be had in satin, crepe, velveteen, tafetta or cotton.

Service Kit for service or home-front, complete with nail polish, cuticle remover and trimmings. She'll love it for its convenience and smart military trim.

Fitted Bag of smart cordera and equipped with lucite zipper pull, comes with cigarette case and compact, a gift of distinction.

Glamour Bag chock full of manicure things . . . a double-duty gifts, made of fine brocade, perfect as an evening bag after the implement tray has been removed.

Her "Beauty Ration" comes in this smart roll-kit, fitted with lipstick, cleansing cream, make-up base, face powder, soap—compartments for extras. Perfect for woman in uniform.

On The Spot for Christmas giving that's lavish and practical is the coat of tawny leopard. But never a spot, from rain or snow will show on the washable, soft kidskin gloves.

Gone to Her Head

Now, when warmth really counts, Christmas gifts should be given accordingly. A novel and pretty hat for the young lady of the family is no more than a very cunning wool-knit shawl, elevated to head-heights and topped with two face flattering pompoms of wool. A heavy fringe does the bordering trick.

Buy a War Bond for Christmas.

Powder Puff Guard

A lovely crystal powder jar to grace her dressing table stands out in the ranks of welcome Christmas gifts. One shows a plastic guard in the cover which protects the puff by keeping it out of the powder, to make it last longer and keep fresh and clean.

Christmas Gift Package

By ANNE CABOT

Whether she serves at home or in industry the modern woman is finding time to "help with her hands" to bolster up the family wardrobes, the decorative touches for the home, the top supply for her children, the essential working gear of her American home. But not all women have the time to find the necessary patterns and designs they so greatly desire in order to carry on the home front in sewing, knitting, patching, crocheting.

Give your busy friend, your women relatives in other towns an unusual, practical, thrifty Christmas present this year—one that will set their imaginations turning eagerly to the sewing basket—that will help them utilize odds and ends of fabrics, wools, yarns, threads! Give them the attractive assortment of Anne Cabot patterns and instructions, gaily packaged so that it forms a real holiday present. Homes can be brightened, friends pleased and diverted, ways and means of saving money achieved if the steadfast American woman will make twice as much as she buys!

Patterns for sewing, chochetting, knitting, quilts, embroidery, toys, dining room and kitchen accessories are included in the Gift Package as well as the popular 32-page Anne Cabot Album.

To order the Anne Cabot Christmas Gift Pacgake (No. 5481) sent to you or to the friend to whom you wish it delivered, send $1.00, NAME and ADDRESS and the Number (5481 to Anne Cabot Sedalia Democrat-Capital, 211 West Wacker Drive, Chicago, Illinois. Use above address only, just as it is printed. Do not send pattern mail to Sedalia, Missouri.

"Your Real Gift—In Your Own Room, Here At Home—"

"The gift I'm sending is very small, but we've put your real gift in your own room, here at home."

That will be a characteristic line from many letters Mothers will write to their sons or daughters in the service this Christmastide. For the families at home are preparing for peace.

Fix up your son's room while he's away . . . add the piece of furniture you know he wants . . . dress up the living room so it will be worthy of him when he gets back.

And tell him about it when you write your Christmas letter.

Colorful Rug Is Good Gift

From the Numdahs—Indian rug—to hooked ones, chenille ones, and shaggy types up the scale to the small Orientals, you'll find myriads of designs from which to choose a gift for Christmas this year.

For a playroom or rumpus room or to use in a room furnished with Early California furniture with Early American maple, a Numdah is very fitting. These gayly colored rugs come in all sizes and you can use them in front of fireplaces, in front of sofas, even as a wall hanging in a rustic type room. Men especially like them and you'll find them a very acceptable gift.

Hooked rugs, of course, go best with Early American furniture and look very well scattered about the room whether the floor is carpeted or polished. The more colorful ones are to be used against a plain rug or a bare floor.

Shaggy throw rugs are very popular for use in living rooms, especially those furnished in Modern, and make splendid gifts. They are frequently used in front of sofas or in front of the fireplace.

Those soft, fuzzy Chenille and other cotton materials that are used for bathroom rugs are warm and cozy to the feet and that is important this year. You can get these in lovely pastel shades to match window and shower curtains.

Oriental designs are well suited for a room furnished in traditional furniture and silken draperies, still available in stocks, though it has been impossible to import any recently. They add to the dignity of a room.

Give a subscription to the Democrat or Capital this Christmas!

De-Metalized Lamps Ready

The new lamps for Christmas giving this year have been de-metalized and in the process, the designers have given them most attractive bases of pottery, wood and china, which makes possible a greater variety of color treatments.

Shades are a distinctive and intriguing feature of the newer lamps with varied designs on parchment and cloth and in heavier materials which sometimes simulate leather.

Wooden based floor lamps are available to match furniture finishes in the home where your gift is going. Light tones are employed for Modern. The polished base in wood is credited with a much softer and homier effect than metal, formerly used. The lamps also are lighter in weight.

A three-way lighting floor lamp is a necessity for reading and bridge and a pair of good reading lamps for a table are needed also to provide sufficient light for the family's evening reading and sewing.

Use 'Service-Ability' as Yardstick in Choosing Gifts for Hi...

Quality Is Next Most Important

Man On Home Front Wants Functional Things, As Does The Soldier

Service-ability is the first yardstick by which to measure all things chosen as gifts for the male, this Christmas, whether they are intended for the man in the army, the navy or the marine corps, or for the man who is serving in a thousand different ways on the home front.

Good functional gifts are wanted by the practical minded man whose impulse is to direct all other available funds into the purchase of War Saving Bonds and Stamps, to make sure that the kind of Christmas we know in America will never vanish.

Quality becomes the second yardstick by which to measure gifts for men this year, because all the gifts he receives are going to be put to more intense use, and they should be able to "take it," and to last longer, so that they can keep on saying Merry Christmas to him for many days and months after the holiday.

Finally, the ability of gifts to lift the spirit of the male to give him relaxation from the added burdens of work and care that is on his shoulders during these strenuous times, to bring a broad grin of happiness to his face, must help guide the selection, and sometimes the light of his smile can be heightened by adding an inexpensive gift to the group of major ones that you select for him.

The woman who is Christmas shopping for a man, this year—and what woman is not—will let his hobbies and his sentiments and his masculine sense of values, guide her choice to the exclusion of her feminine sense of the delicate and frilly.

Every analysis of the problem of choosing gifts for the man this year, points irretrievably to something for him to wear, something to make him more comfortable at work and during leisure hours, and to one other most important consideration—if he is in the armed forces: the gift chosen should meet all regulations of the service. Clerks in stores will guide you correctly here.

Robe for Relaxation

Time was when a robe was the traditional gift for Dad as the chief stay-at-homer. Today the robe ascends to a more active role of rayon, flannel, velveteen or corduafter a hard day at work. In ayon, flannel, velveteen or corduroy, there are new priority satisfying, chill-beating models. They really should be accompanied as a gift with a pair of warmly lined slippers of moccasin type or ankle height to make the unit complete.

The occasional sports jacket and coat sweaters will be excellent choices for the man this year with their practical usefulness enhanced by a dash of good styling. There are more with zipper closing than you would imagine and you can find them in the style you want if you shop early.

Yes, suits and overcoats and hats must be included in the gift giving category this year, along with ties and pajamas and underthings, and especially warm hose. As for ties, the woman can shop with safety indeed for the Christmas patterns this year are definitely chosen for masculine tastes, and there are gift certificates plus a miniature topper to help give a man a hat of his own selection.

The accessory items so essential to a man's happiness in the point at which the early shopper is going to be the most successful gift shopper.

For Early Shoppers

There are electric razors, for example, to be found in department stores and men's stores and drug stores. Fitted cases are available with safety razors, in limited quantities. Even radio sets can be found also if you shop carefully, and watches—try for the waterproof type—also are there for the early shopper.

There is an excellent selection of luggage for the man, ranging from the splendid new cases which preserve clothes from wrinkling down to the handsome all leather overnight bags now so useful to most men.

Pipes and tobacco pouches, travel kits equipped with all the essential toiletries, gag gifts carved from useful soap handsomely boxed, are among the many things from which to select gifts that put the sparkle of an old fashioned Christmas into 1942 giving, which should and must be basically practical to make the man enjoy it most.

Dear Diary . . .

Whether he's to be reached at an A. P. O. address or is still doing his duty in the United States, a small size diary resplendent with his military insignia is the answer to one Christmas gift problem! Statistics show the diary high on almost every service man's preferred gift list!

Take your change in War Stamps.

Cheer the Practical Minded Man This Christmas by Choosing Gifts That Will Prove Long-Lasting, Bring Him Comfort, Relaxation and Pleasure

Give Him Relaxation this Christmas by choosing the wearable that will make him comfortable at home. A trim fitting flannel robe of napthalated wool, or a dressier one of rayon, and add a pair of comfortable shoes, warmly lined. Carry your share this Christmas

Pipe And Pouch should be combined as one gift for a He man and should be accompanied by a pound of his favorite blend. The tobacconist will help you select the right combination.

Light Weight Jacket of weatherproof fabric and zippered to fit tight in the storm—here's a gift every man wants for sports or work. It's appropriately called Bantamac

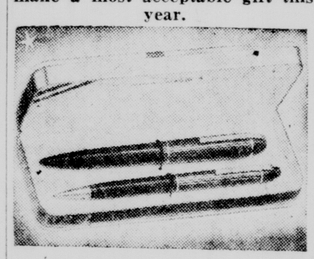
Sportsmen's Delight—a Decoy set of masculine bath soap perched on a bath and smartly boxed Gift for that outdoor man who "has everything."

Colorful Pajamas in Rayon or Cotton will always be welcomed by the man whose supply is invariably below par, and is replenished by thoughtful givers.

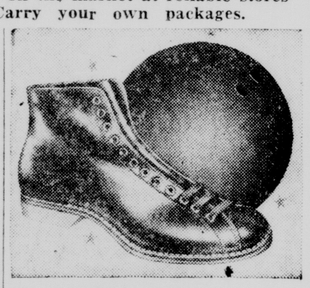
Make It An Extra gift for the service man by simply addressing already packaged and much needed razor blades, right in the store from where it will be mailed.

Christmas Ties May Be Chosen with perfect safety by any woman for any man this year, for the colorful patterns are sensible, and the new materials on the market at reliable stores will keep their shape. Carry your own packages.

Lined or Unlined, depending upon the idiosyncracies, and the ability of that man to resist cold, gloves for dress business will make a most acceptable gift this year.



Pen and Pencil Sets are now streamlined for elegance and make prize gifts for Christmas giving to the man whether in civilian life or in the service. They come neatly boxed.



Shoes or Ball or better yet, both, would make a thrilling answer to the gift problem for the bowler who is taking his game seriously these days for its relaxing value.

Electric Razors are indeed still on the market and your gift of one will be the more cherished for the fact that you sought it out.

Taking Steps Toward Christmas Comfort

Solid Comfort The Year Round is the gift you give when you choose house shoes for the man. To the left is the favored lounge shoe that can go outdoors. Other types from which to select range from the all cloth slippers to the trim dress type Men Like Luggage and need it these days. The bag for quick, overnight trips, as pictured below is of durable, handsome leather. The case pictured above save suits from wrinkles on longer trips.

Accessories To A Merry Christmas are legion for your favorite man. Warm scarf, slippers, pajamas, and tie-rack are but a few, available in a variety of styling and price ranges to fit every budget. Aim for quality. Buy a War Bond for Christmas.

Shaving Trio enlists for service. These pleasure giving triplets consist of a pottery mug containing shave soap and pottery bottles of after-shave lotion and men's talc.

How To Give an overcoat? It's simple, so long as you know his size. Choose for warmth and quality, and have it packed in a gift box, tied with ribbon.

Hats Off To Cleverness for here is the fool proof way of giving a man a hat for Christmas. Merely sign a gift certificate and get a miniature to send along with it. He'll get the idea, then he can drop in at leisure and be fitted. Take your change in War Stamps.

Chill Killing Sweater in wonderfully soft Mirapaca, light as a feather and in smart coat style, for leisure work, to please the most discriminating man.

"In the Army" Now

Just picture Junior's proud beam of approval when he perches a jaunty military cap on his rough and tumble curls. He'll march about with his friends, commandeering victorious battles against the enemy, wanting nothing more to "fight" with than his authentic overseas or MacArthur army hat, of khaki serge.

Shirts Prove Safest Gift

Few men ever have as many shirts as they would like to own. This is true even of the boys who are now in the army, though Uncle Sam furnishes them with an issue.

Therefore, you will never make a mistake by giving that man of yours a box of shirts, this Christmas.

All you need to know to make the gift perfect, is his size, and sleeve length, which can be found inside the collar band on one of the shirts now in his dresser drawer; and whether he likes them plain white, or colored. The stores will guide you in selection of the collar style.

One more caution is necessary when you're planning a gift of shirts for the man in the army. They must be regulation styling and color. Most stores have them in correct fabrics so all you need do is make it clear that they are for an army man.

If you are buying a gift of shirts for the man in the navy, white with detached collars are safest, for both commissioned and chief petty officers wear only whites with their blue uniforms.

Regulation Chino's however, are welcome for summer.

Silver Circlets

Round up and lock up—that's what she'll do with the ingenious jewelry that's taking the town by storm. A simple and beautiful bracelet of sterling silver clamps around her waist and locks with a miniature padlock.

Glass Blocks

Glass block vases are just "ultra" for that smart additional touch to a room. They can be used as aquaria, flower-holders and bookends—look simply beautiful when filled with a harmonious assortment of flowers, and are very practical because their weight makes them hard to tip over.

Urn At Entrance

Urns in white marble-like stone or in colors may be found in most novelty departments of your department stores. Get a pair for the entrance of your house or for a gift for a friend's home.

Don't Wait Is The Advice On Jewelry

By FRED V. COLE
Editor, Jewelers' Circular-Keystone

If your Christmas shopping list includes a watch, a piece of jewelry, or some silverware—then this year of all years, heed the old warning to "do your Christmas shopping early."

Most jewelry stores still have complete stocks and a wide variety of choice to offer because the jeweler has always done his buying further ahead than merchants in most fields. Consequently the shortages and scarcities that you have found in so many other things haven't yet been felt by the public.

However, this doesn't mean that you're going to go right on being able to step into a jewelry store and find anything and everything you want.

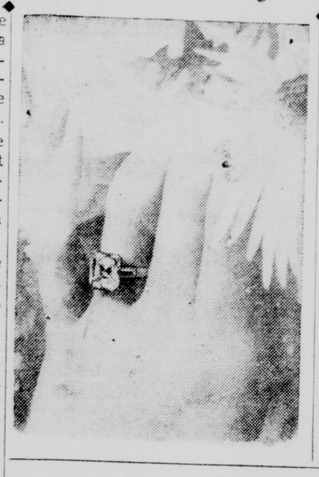
The manufacture of many of the things the jeweler sells has been either stopped or greately restricted by war-time regulations. No plated silver ware, for example, has been made for months, and no more can be made until the war is over.

The same thing is true of clocks and of cigarette lighters. The supply of watches has been greatly reduced. So has sterling silver and many of the less expensive kinds of jewelry—because the materials the machinery, and the men who make them are needed for the war effort.

So when the jeweler's present supply of those things is gone—and it goes pretty quickly when Christmas shopping gets underway—you're likely to have difficulty finding just what you want. And this year the jeweler probably won't be able to "get it for you" if he doesn't have it on hand.

In fact, for the duration of the war, this may be the last Christmas that you'll be able to buy anything and everything in the way of jewelry that you want. So it you're thinking of a jewelry gift for anyone in the fairly near future, give it this year, and buy it early.

Diamonds Shine Through Christmas Scene With a Special Gift Brilliance



Diamonds shine through the Christmas scene, 1942, with a special gift giving brilliance unmatched by anything else in significance or value, with the single exception of War Savings Bonds.

Here is a gift on which there are no priorities, and one that may be chosen in keeping with income that no longer can find avenues of expenditure in such transitory things as motor cars.

Yet it is a gift that can be paid for on government approved terms as easily as can a motor car, and it doesn't wear out.

But more important this year, diamonds are gifts with a sentimental significance that matches in every conceivable way, their unique intrinsic value, for the diamond is the traditional messenger of the deepest of human emotions—love, which, like the diamond that symbolizes love, goes on through the ages.

Long before Christmas 1942 became an active gift giving impulse in the minds of most people during this year of war, the trend toward giving diamonds as gifts experienced a marked rise.

The man who — probably more often in silence than aloud—promised to give a diamond to the woman who is—or whom he hopes might be—his wife, began to undertake fulfillment of that promise. The trend had been growing stronger as the Christmas season approaches, and it is strongly reflected in the care with which jewelers have chosen the stocks of precious gems they are now featuring for the Yuletide.

The trend has in fact overflowed this basic gift pattern—to encompass the man who is leaving for the service. The diamond is rapidly becoming a symbol, not only of love between man and wife, but of the affection in which wives and parents hold a son or husband, who is going off to war. The precious longevity of the stone's brilliant light, may be responsible for this trend, for it seems to brighten a path back home.

The gift of a diamond has always been the most intimate tangible expression of love, and thus is perhaps explained the ever current desire of a woman for a diamond. It is a desire that never dies, and that is why, perhaps the diamond is being given this year by sons to mothers, and by parents to children.

Whether the brilliant stone be set in a ring, or a pin, or in earrings, is a matter of to whom the gift is to be given. The reputable jeweler will help you make the choice fit the person for whom it is intended.

Rip-Roarin' Tie

Many's the boy who will give a whoop of excited joy when he opens his Christmas gift box to find handsomely patterned ties whose colors and designs were inspired by America's fighting planes.

"Commando Suit"

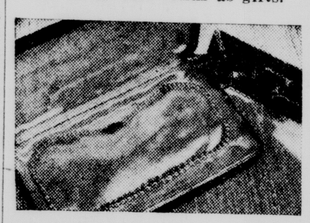
Sonny will be fighting battles galore (in the back yard, of course) if he's given an authentic "Commando" suit come Christmas morn! Mother will appreciate this gift, too, because the suit is made of a poplin which sheds water, stains and perspiration besides keeping the little tyke warm.

Flowering Library

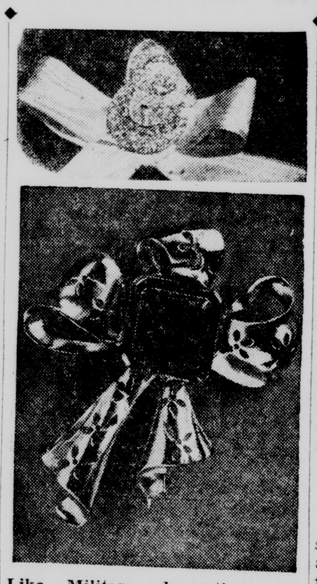
Utility bookends that serve as vases for flowers offer a pleasurable solution to the gift-for-the-home problem. In the shape of huge crystal blocks they complete a setting with a few vines of ivy.

Precious and Rare Are the Fine Gifts You'll Choose Early From Stocks in Jewelry Stores

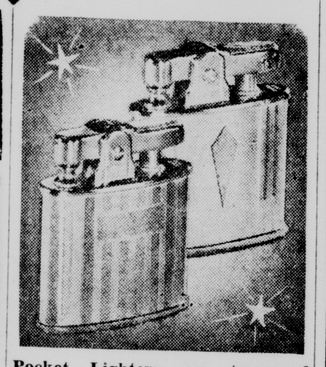
Fine Watches for him and for her are truly rare finds as gifts.



Loveliness makes these exquisite Marvella pearls perfect gifts.



Like Military decorations are these jeweled clips and pins for gift giving now.



Pocket Lighters are treasured gifts this year and can be had in time for giving if you act quickly. Those for service men should be shielded against the wind.

Bunny-Love

Her little heart will be won if she's the lucky recipient of an adorable hat and muff set of fuzzy and warm bunny fur. She'll cherish it for its lush softness and snowy whiteness—she'll want to "dress-up" day in and day out.

Oil Lamp Revived

There's been a revival of the old oil lamp as a necessity for blackout rooms. Get one for a friend as a gift. They come in colored glass bases or in milk glass, and with a modern shade on them, they're very attractive.

Dim-Out Gift

An alcohol heater with a flameproof casserole is a necessity for dim-out time. For a friend who entertains the patrol members after duty is over, give one of these sets.

Colorful Things on Clothes Racks Making Santa Claus Pull Strings for a "Wearable" Children's Christmas

By BETTY GREEN
Fashion Editor, Parents Magazine

When you see racks and racks of such Christmas confections as crisp organdie pinafores, colorful tafetta party frocks, dainty lingerie, flower strewn quilted cotton robes, you can practically hear the jingle bells, Santa is pulling the strings for a wearable Christmas this year especially where little children are concerned.

You have probably just started to think seriously about your Christmas lists. "Better shop early," you have been warned, "The supply will not meet the demand." Sound advice, we call it, especially if you have some children on that list of yours for whom you are planning to buy Gifts-to-Wear.

The earlier you do your shopping in the infants' and children's department, the fresher and more varied you will find the stocks.

Looking ahead for you we list some of the exciting Christmas wearables that will reward the early shopper.

Baby's First Christmas

When you see the assortments of baby dresses you will find the new stlyes more enchanting than ever. Now that we cannot get all the hand work from the Philippines, our own American manufacturers are turning out machine made baby frocks that are as highly styled as your own.

We warn you, don't go near them unless you mean to buy some. They are irresistable.

Of Thee We Sing

Nothing like a pinafore under the tree to brighten a child's Christmas morning, especially this year when the designers of toddlers and older girls dresses have done some of their best work with pinafores.

You will find it hard to choose between the sheer ruffly organdies and the saucy glazed chintz.

For toddler 1 to 3's there's nothing like a dress and pinafore set, frosted with lace, primed for a party.

Cotton Knits for Both

This is the year to be practical in your selection of children's Chistmas gifts. That's why we include cotton knit brother and sister suits in our list of recommended gifts.

The children will enjoy wearing them and their mothers will bless you for your good sense, as well as for your good wishes.

And, if you ever find yourself really up a tree about what to give little Tommy or Mary, a separate cotton-knit pull-over is a wonderful solution, either in pastels or in Christmas Ball colored stripings.

Bedtime Stories

Of course, robes are a "natural" for Christmas. Little babies (and their mothers, too) gurgle over warm blanket cloth robes with cuddly appliques; over corduroys and quilts. The sturdy toddler will like a tailored cotton fleece, stlyed for either a boy or girl. Grown-up and growing-up girls swoon over flower patterned cotton quilt robes, either in floor length or the new "shortie" length that helps conserve fabrics.

This year the newcomer to the robe collection is a flowered challis fabric that contains Aralac, the magical new protien fibre derived from milk casein which has the warmth of wool. Lots of your quilted robes will be quilted over Aralac instead of cotton and that's important in a year when fuel is a questionable commodity.

"Cold hearths, warm hands" is a good adage to remember when you're Christmas shopping. Then you won't forget to gift your favorite child with a cozy robe or cute cotton flannel pajamas.

Quilted B-eauties

Is there a growing girl or a teen ager on you list? Then make up your mind now to buy her one of the new quilted accessories—such as a waistcoat or hug-me-tight jackets that she will wear instead of a sweater or over her skating skirt.

Quilted bonnets, mittens—even quilted skirts are among your best Christmas "finds" for '42. You will particularly like the calico ones.

School Girl Skirts

And they like particularly the skirts that have a novelty appeal such as appliqued felt flowers or perfectly HUGE pockets that will accomodate their knitting. Many girls have been longing for patch pocket skirts "like all the girls are wearing to school."

Well, what better time for making wishes come true than Christmas? The dirndlish skirts are rated "hep," "smooth," and "super" by the knowing younger crowd.

Teddy Bear Tempters

Any girl who hasn't yet received one of the new Teddy Bear coats will simply s-woon when she finds one under the tree. To a teen ager this cozy pile of fabric is more preciuos than mink or sable and twice as smart. The shorter jackets are very inexpensive.

P. S. They're cuddly warm, too. And, while we're on the subject of Teddy Bear fashions, what about the shaggy Teddy Bear sweaters that are creating such a campus furore.

Heartfelt Good Wishes

Look for the colorful felt gadgets in the girls' department for an inexpensive gift that will bring a gleam to any child's eyes. For instance, felt mittens and caps, felt, shoulder strap bags, felt suspenders, felt beanies and felt flower jewelry too.

Incidentally, all school girls are mad about any type of gadget jewelry and this year there's plenty of it styled just for them. If you don't find it in the girl's department, look for it in the main floor jewelry departments.

Snowsuits for Warmth

If you are really going to plunge on a Gift-to-Wear for a child, consider the worthy snowsuit a good investment in Christmas cheer, a good protection against Christmas chill. We like the new cotton gabardine or poplin suits, lined with wool or Aralac. Be sure the cotton is processed for water repellency and spot resistance.

This year most of the suit for smaller children are one-piece styles—easy to get into and out of. In all but the tiny sizes you will buy the matching cap separately. Yes, even Santa is subject to Government regulations.

Merry Chistmas shopping to all. When Santa pulls the strings for a Wearable Christmas, the Children will dance with delight.

Milk's Wonderful—Inside And Out! Sister's robe of rayon satin is quilted over Aralac . . . baby's cdtton snow suit (in inset) is interlined with Aralac—the "milk-made" fabric that's so warm indoors and out! Parents Magazine photo.

Make It a Lasting Christmas in Fact as Well as in Memory

Be Practical In Choosing Sentimental

Stores Are Ready For Early Shoppers With Lay-Away Plans

With gifts that have a capacity for making Christmas a lasting event in fact as well as in memory, being so carefully sought out by the really thoughtful gift giver this year, it is no wonder that the greatest trend in Yuletide shopping history is in the direction of furniture and home furnishings.

For among these things will be found not only the gifts that express the essence of Christmas sentiment as in the instance of the comfortable embrace of an arm chair, but also the practical beauty of an admirably selected desk that can lend distinction to the room for which it is chosen.

Yes, among these things can be found permanent touches of beauty like draperies and priority-statisfying lamps of glass and wood, that add color and light to the welcome given off by every living room.

And from among these things can be chosen something that will serve the man—or woman, —who has doffed his, or her, civilian clothes for a uniform, the while its presentation tells both, most eloquently that home will be waiting for their return.

A gift of this type from among the furniture and home furnishings that are on display, is the cedar chest, now no longer reserved for the bride-to-be alone, but equally practical for the male as well. He will find it most useful for storing civvies safely.

The furniture stores of this city, aided by the manufacturers, have planned well for Christmas, 1942. They realize that with the energies and resources of the Nation diverted from " living as usual" to "winning the war," the homes for which we are fighting would become more precious.

Thus they are ready in two-fold fashion this war time Christmas, with an assortment of practical gifts full of Yuletide sentiment of a high order, for every member of the family to enjoy in homes where they will be spending more time than ever before.

Some Selections Limited

The two-fold preparation for Christmas, 1942 arises from the thoughtful selection and stocking of items that may be difficult to find later, plus the ingenuity of the designer in new and modern furniture and furnishings that do not conflict with war time needs, the while they strike new notes of utility and fashion beauty for the home. Wonderful things have been done with wood, plastics and glass.

In any event, it is clear that with a wide assortment from which to choose furniture gifts this year, there will be limited selections of irreplaceable items in some instances. This means that the smart and practical Christmas gift shopper who is thinking in terms of the home will do her—or his—shopping early in the furniture stores.

Tomorrow is not too early, because delivery need not be immediate though selection should be.

This is where the "layaway" plan that the stores are making so readily available this year will come to the aid of the Christmas shopper .

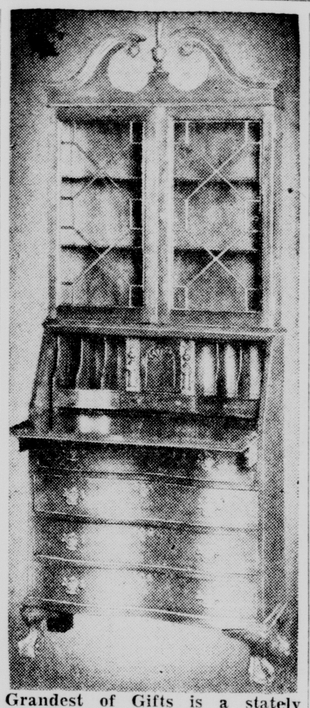
The lay-away plan does in fact makes possible the more liberal purchase of gifts for use in the home, and also home gifts of the best quality, because it serves to lengthen the time in which the shopper has to pay for what is chosen.

Liberal government approved credit terms are available to furniture gift buyers this Christmas.

Furniture stores are cooperating whole-heartedly in the government's Price Ceiling programs and furniture stores also are urging you to "take your change in war stamps."

Among These Things for the Home Will Be Found the Essence Of Gift Giving, With the Warmth of the Armchair's Embrace

Comfort Corner For Mother or Dad! The soft, channel back chair will be welcomed by both and it will be a toss-up as to who will enjoy most the drawers of the mahogany table. The two drawers are roomy enough to hold mom's sewing equipment or dad's favorite pipes. In combinations a gift for either —or both.



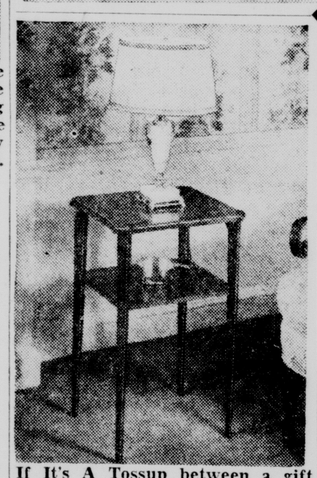
Grandest of Gifts is a stately breakfront desk which combines utility with dominating decorativeness. This is but one of many models from which to choose.

Consider The Iiving Room, and what it means to the amily this year, and a score of gift giving ideas will come to mind. Convenience and variety are possible with flexible, modern section bookcases, and sectional sofa chairs. Extra tables, pictures, draperies and bric-a-brac are gifts that dress up a room to perfection. Buy a War Bond For Christmas!

Cocktail Time Will Be Pleasure Time when she serves on a beautiful cocktail table. A glass top does away with fear of liquid stains on the delicately carved, highly polished mahogany. This Duncan Phyfe lyre model is a perfect gift choice.

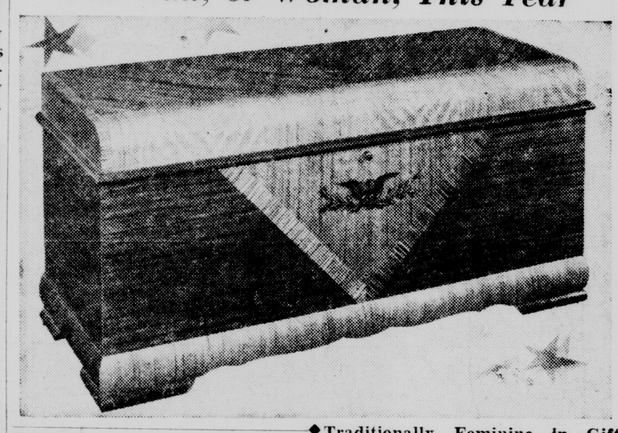
Smoke Him Out of his sombre attitude by choosing one of the new smoking stands for placing right next to his chair where he can relax. Available to early shoppers in modern or period.

Hassocks As You Like Them, contrast with furniture now in colorful or subdued, to match or that lucky gift receiver's home. Perfect comfort and utility.

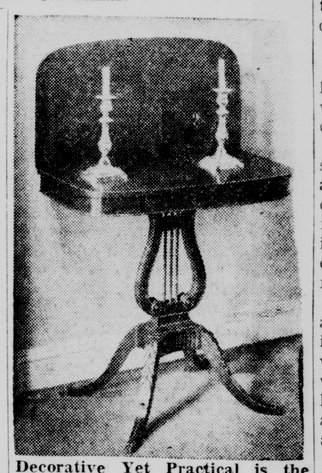


If It's A Tossup between a gift table or lamp, why not compromise and give both! This Sheraton table is of shining mahogany with a convenient shelf for incidentals; the lovely lamp of gleaming white onyx.

For Man, or Woman, This Year



◆Traditionally Feminine in Gift giving—the cedar chest is rapidly becoming a splendid choice for the young man who's going off to defend his country. They're deep and roomy—perfect for storing his "civvies" for the duration. A sliding removable tray provides for incidentals. Above is a Victory design, featuring woods of the United Nations. Take your change in War Stamps.



Decorative Yet Practical is the keynote of this handsome Duncan Phyfe lyre, wall console table. It's of Honduras Mahogany with brass feet and brass drawer compartment.

Double Talk

The apparent delight of little girls when they find Christmas gift pinafores with cuddly rolls dressed in exactly the same outfit, will be a gratifying sight on Yuletide morn. There's a plentiful variety.

Young Aviator

Air-minded lads will greet warmly the "professionally" styled leather helmets that look just like those their air heroes wear in combat. They make wonderful gifts for American youths, because of their practical warmth on blustery days.

Gift For Home Is Best Gift For Mother

A gift for mother? So puzzling because you know her so well? It need not be, for remember, that mother's heart beats stronger for the home, the gathering place, the haven, for her family.

And what goes to make the home a more attractive, a more inviting place, is the gift of the holiday for mother.

Yet big as is her heart and much as she wants to share with the other, the intimate gift that will touch her closely, is the one that helps her enjoy her role in the home. So, first, ask yourself if she has a comfortable chair in which to relax in the living room. Get her one, styled to suit her tastes, whether Queen Anne or channel back style.

Look to her bedroom, her haven of rest. Does she have a chaise lounge or a slipper chair to sit in while she puts on her shoes? These come in inexpensive brackets.

Is she busy with Red Cross sewing or knitting? Then get her a sewing cabinet, with roomy drawers, to match the rest of her furniture. For having her friends in she might like a permanent card table set, with attractive folding chairs.

Monogrammed linen and towels are lovely gifts for a discriminating mother. Fittings for the closet will please her. Think of home when you think of mother and selecting a gift for her for as little as a dollar, as much as you can afford to spend, will be easy.

Remember, mother's heart is in the home.

Color The Scene

Wallpaper can incorporate every color you have in the room. One dainty bedroom noted has pink curtains, a blue rug and a pink and green plaid chair . . . and the wallpaper used had every one of those colors in it.

Here Are Gifts For The Outdoor Man

By NEA Service

NEW YORK — The winter months of 1943 are going to find civilians spending more time out of doors than they did last year, and the Christmas gifts for men now on display make the most of that fact.

The man of the house is walking where he used to ride. He's taking his night turn as air raid warden or plane spotter, and feeling the winter chill in trips to and from a late shift in war plants, besides keeping up with winter sports. And there are enough warm clothes on shop shelves to make up for all the car gadgets that shoppers were buying last year.

For the sportsman, some alert houses even have on hand enough reconditioned golf balls and metal gear for hunters, anglers, skiers, for a wife to present her spouse with quite a final spree of now-prioritied equipment.

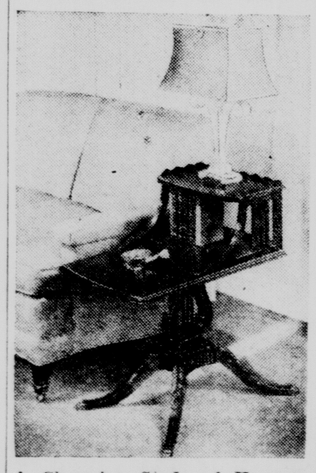
Fuel-Saving Flannels

The man who's about the house a good deal—the 65-degree house—will appreciate pullover or cardigan sweaters, a good and gay flannel sports shirt . . . flannel pajamas. And if he's a country dweller who gathers firewood to warm the house these days, a leather windbreaker with sheepskin lining and matching hat with earmuffs. Of course, if he's really working in the house for the first time—some sturdy overalls or work pants and a compact pocket tool set, or regular carpenter tools.

And any man whose sport or work takes him into cold places should welcome a tan gabardine waistcoat which buttons tightly and has an apron in back. The apron looks odd but makes plenty of sense for a man troubled by cold striking between his belt and the end of the average up-riding vest. Hunters should like, too, knitted gunner's mitts.

Sewing Cabinets offer variety in styling and eminent usefulness for anyone who is shopping early this year for a gift for a woman who is sewing to save for the family ,or for war relief.

To delight a fisherman's heart, here is a fitted tackle box, and a water-repellant duck apron in which to carry all sorts of gear. The hold-all apron (inset) has adjustable neck and waistband.



A Charming Study of Harmonious Setting is exemplified in this attractive Duncan Phyfe lyre chairside, table, and accompanying lamp of glass in graceful leaf-like design. This type available in other woods and styles.

Christmas May Be Different This Year, But It Can Also Be a Better One for All

By CLARA S. LITTLEDALE
Editor of Parents' Magazine

This will be a different Christmas. No matter how many of us may wish for Christmas as usual, it can not be the same as in the days before this country had been at war for over a year. Many families will miss sons who are in the armed forces, many families will have met bereavement.

What effect will this changed atmosphere have upon our children? Must world conflict and individual anxiety darken their Christmas day? Or is it possible to insist on "childhood as usual" and to make good such a promise?

The answer must be both yes and no. We can not pretend that all is as it used to be and expect our children to believe it. Though to all outward appearances they are the same happy, carefree, noisy youngsters. Those who are closest to them realize that they are affected by the atmosphere about them, that they sense even that which is unspoken.

But this does not mean that girls and boys must be weighed down with the cares and worries of an adult. And it does not mean that the word "merry" can not apply to this Christmas as it has to all the other Christmases that we and our children have celebrated. Soldiers and sailors and airmen of all nations will remember Christmas this year. Wherever they are, the old, old greeting, "Merry Christmas" will be found on their lips.

This year families will feel more deeply than ever before that Christmas is a home day, and that the giving of gifts symbolizes the love which they feel toward each other and toward friends. Presents may be simplier and more practical and that is desireable. In many a stocking and on many a tree war bonds and war saving stamps will be valued gifts. Christmas dinner may be less elaborate than is was in other years, but it will be festive. In many homes it will be necessary for every one to lend a helping hand with the work involved.

Because people are seeking entertainment at home this year, new games and pastimes are appearing on the market and these will help to make Christmas merry with children and grown-ups playing together.

There will be toys this year in abundance, but different toys made of different materials, a tribute to the American toymaker's ingenuity and his understanding of what delights children. And there will be music to help make Christmas merry.

We are fast becoming a musical nation and victrolas and radio are bringing the best music into our homes and helping to create musicians. Happy familiesaV,.orjlftsa cians. Happy the family who has always had the custom or who starts the custom this year of singing together on Christmas day —and other days.

Yes, Christmas will be a different Christmas this year, but there's every reason to believe that is can be a better Christmas for all of us.

Playthings Plentiful But Selections May Be Limited

Old Favorites Plus a World of New Toys, Waiting to Be Earmarked For Christmas This Year, to Every Good Girl and Every Good Boy

By MAXINE LIVINGSTON
Family Home Editor, The Parents Magazine

This Christmas, at least Santa Claus isn't worrying too much about providing little Johnny and Mary with toys. He's been working overtime, though, because he knows how important it is to keep little children busy and happily engaged at all times of stress and strain.

There are plenty of new toys in the stores waiting to be earmarked for good little boys and girls, but many of them reflect the limitations imposed by the necessity for conserving strategic materials. Many of the toys which have been favorites with children through the generations are still to be had—but made from different materials. And just to make sure that children have a gay and happy Christmas this year, Santa is painting the toys extra bright.

Possibly the most grevious casualty to the male members of the family is the electric train. Some stores, however, are fairly well supplied with electric trains, having anticipated the War Production Board's limitation order prohibiting the manufacture of all metal toys containing more than 7 per cent of their weight in critical materials.

However, when present stocks are depleted no more electric trains will be manufactured for the duration. But if you explain to Johnny, and maybe his father, too, that there is enough zinc in a three and one-half pound toy locomotive to make a carburetor on a jeep, he will have just as much fun supplying the power to run one of the new wood or pressboard trains.

Making Them of Wood

And he is building other wheel toys, for boys and girls from four to ten years of age, out of wood and composition board. A scooter in the shape of a turtle will delight the smaller tots, while their older brothers will carry the battle to the front yard with replicas of tanks, planes, mosquito boats, and a super Ack-Ack gun. It is only natural that many of the new toys are adaptations of the latest equipment used by our armed forces.

For the sailor who sails the stormy bathtub waters there are battleships, submersible submarines, destroyers and aircraft carriers. And, of course, half of the fun is dressing up in a play uniform copied from models worn by the United States armed forces.

There are new educational toys planned and tested for age suitability, as well as for fun. Educators and parents, realizing the importance, are stressing the value of pre-school toys which encourage pulling, pushing, pattern fitting, pounding and building, as a stimulation to the child's physical and mental growth.

Infants, perhaps more than any other age group, will be most affected by the toy scene since colored rubber toys and toys made of plastics having a formaldehyde base are no longer made. Some rubber toys are still to be found in the stores, but if you cannot find just the rubber toy you are looking for, remember babies are easily amused and there are a number of new wood rattles and other playthings that are sure to catch their fancy.

Matching Furniture

Some of the new doll furniture is particularly attractive, and it is even possible for the tiny mother and her dollies to have matching furniture. Their clear colors and restrained designs are a relief from the hodge-podge of former years.

Aspiring young designers will be intrigued with the new mannequin sets. One set with a paper doll includes paper patterns for making hats, coat and dresses, while another fashion model is a regular roll and more substantial. Peggy comes in an attractive red, white and blue box which makes a handy carrying kit for sewing, knitting or shopping. This set not only includes accurate patterns for making dresses and uniforms, but it also gives directions for knitting a pullover sweater.

Victory Fleet will be welcomed eagerly by your boy! It is made up of fighting craft, in plastic, that floats easily, and planes, too, lined up ready for action, on the air-craft carrier.

Let Them Sing And Play on this new interchangeable key "Composa-Tune xylophone. Children love the realization that they are actually producing songs that they have heard before.

Young Strategists will be thrilled with this amazing armada of the sea and the air, to help them mimic great naval battles. Amazingly inexpensive.

Teatime is a happy time for any little girl who is the proud owner of this gayly colored, all plastic tea set. Rainbow colors decorate the napkins, too!

Chemistry Sets Complete with everything necessary to the budding young scientist's home laboratory, are fascinating and instructive gifts that will keep him home night after night
Buy a War Bond for Christmas

Pull Toys like these reflect the ingenunity of the manufacturer, who make them entirely of wood.

History In Making is taught by this government approved Op-Ti-Ko, a picture book of army and navy training pictures with which a three dimensional Op-Ti-Scope is provided, to make the pictures most realistic.

Constructive Play is encouraged by a Peg and Hammer-Nail table and stool set as pictured above, complete with materials, booklets of designs. The set will keep the youngsters from destructive attacks on furniture and walls in the home. Take your change in War Stamps.

Toys; Games That Teach Will Intrigue Old as Well

Picture puzzel books and puzzle construction sets will interest the very young members of the family as well as the older ones. Some of them are so colorful that once the child has put the puzzle together it can be used as a decoration in his room.

Then, too, there are games and hobby material in which the whole family can participate. Many of them feature airplane combat, technique and the strategy of army and fleet maneuvers; others include model building, railroading, bead looms and painting sets.

The family who enjoys billiards and bowling but whose house does not provile space for a full-size table or alley will be interested in the miniatures which can be set up on a table or on the floor.

One of the new construction sets contains miniatures of the materials used in building houses. For a number of years there have been sets with which children could build replicas of some of the famous historical cabins of pioneer days, but new kits contain bricks and stone and ore held together with mortar, just the way real buildings are erected.

Miniature chemistry laboratories appeal to both boys and girls. There are simple, inexpensive sets for the beginner and more complete ones for the advanced student of chemistry. Magic outfits containing all the material to perform legerdemain will prove to be just as much fun for the papas and mamas as it will for the children.

Of course, you may have to spend a little more time this year when you shop for toys. Every store won't have all the toys you are seeking. But if you start your shopping early you will surely find most of the toys you are looking for.

Spoonful for Mother

Those words are probably familiar if baby is the type who takes a "peculiar pleasure in eating cold food"! Gaily colored baby feeding sets put an end to that trouble for the bright colors are an inducement to eat—and the food can be kept warm because the sectional feeding dish sets over a hot water container.

Young America Mobilizes on the Home Front with mili-toys and here is the recons-peep, so much like those fascinating cars real soldiers use, most every boy is going to want one. This Year's Dolls Fulfill Every Little Girl's Requirements

Most Wanted Gifts Offer Wide Choice

Life Size Models Made Of Cloth Featured This Year

By Etta Zimmerman

Although toyland has given generously of materials needed to win the war, whenever necessary, doll inhabitants of the land of make-believe still are being created, adorable as ever, to bring joy to the hearts of little-girl "mothers."

This Christmas, especially, gift dolls will be eagerly looked forward to, since many dolls, particularly those of rubber composition have been given up wistfully by their owners to help swell the family's scrap contribution.

This year's crop of dolls is largely constructed of cloth, some in excitingly large sizes—almost as large as five and six year olds themselves! They are made completely life-like, by being dressed in little-girl smocks, slacks and pinafores that are darling copies of youngsters' own apparel.

Typical is one vivacious young miss with yellow braids, called Clarabelle, who will be a true playmate to the lucky girl who adopts her. She is just one of the many life-size dolls that will take their places in youngsters' hearts come Christmas gift-giving time.

"Me and Mimi" represent all-cloth dolls to be given in sets of two, with "Mimi" the smaller "facsimile" of "Me." This cute twosome is joined by other friends, all with their own miniature companions held lovingly in their arms. To mention a few—there is a heart capturing little pickaninny holding her own likeness, called "Me and My Shadow," and as a variation, a mammy and her baby.

For Patriotic Minded

For the patriotic minded little Miss, there are any number of Victory-working dolls, all dressed up in sailor suits, soldier uniforms and Red Cross nurse outfits. America's fighting heroes are well represented by two smart chaps in service uniforms, one who wears the Navy Blue and the other the Olive Drab of the Army. Uniquely constructed, their arms and legs can be bent into almost any position.

Dressed in colorful red, white and blue, a saucy pair exemplifying an American boy and girl may be bought together or separately; they can be made to stand or sit. And, mention must be made of the "Thumbs Up" doll, pert and welcome as the spirit indicated by its thumbs-up gesture!

Although most of this year's dolls are cloth, many have plastic heads. One newcomer to doll-land, named Plassie, can ingeniously turn her head at various angles as well as from side to side. With her moving expressiveness and soft, stuffed body, she is made to cuddle and love.

Always favorites, baby dolls still have a priority on the affections of little girls, and there are many composition dolls with soft bodies to take the place of former types, whose basic materials have gone to war. Most of these sweet, new baby dolls have sleeping eyes, and long, lovely lashes.

Talkative Youngster

An amusing addition to the doll family selection is the "Poppa-Mamma" doll. A talkative young type, this baby sweetheart says Mamma when laid down and Poppa when picked up. And there is "Sweetie Pie," a great big, beautiful doll with moving eyes, legs and arms.

Sub-deb dolls lend reality to a little girl's dreams of "how I'll look when I'm grown up." The Little Lady Doll, an entrancing beauty, has a satin smooth complexion, smart modern hair-do and even tapering, separated fingers which can wear gloves! She can be dressed in sportswear, school-type clothes or for dancing parties in a dream of a formal dress.

Many little girls will like to start their wartime collection of Allied Nation dolls, which come in authentic costumes of their native lands; the start of a childhood interest which may grow into a lifelong hobby.

The thoughtful gift-giver will include a change of apparel with the doll chosen to make a little girl happy. As a means of making what one has, to go further and just for fun, old clothes can be cut down into dresses for the dolls that will find themselves 'neath the Christmas tree.

Stuffed Animals

Stuffed animals offer a great variety this year. Vying with old favorites like bears, dogs and monkeys are the many new stuffed pets. Pandas, elephants, kittens, penguins, lions, adorable lambs and fawns in fabric, many with jointed paws and heads seem especially made for Christmas giving . . . not only for youngsters, but for 'teen age girls' boudoirs too!

More life-like than ever, dolls for this Christmas offer infinite variety in individual looking, sturdy and appealng types. And, choosing a doll for a lucky girl will be a joyous adventure with so many lovable types to select from, at every price.

Quilted Cuties

A bit of quilting here and there adds a touch of welcome warmth, yet doesn't add uncalled for spending. Rayon satin, cotton velveteen and just plain cotton become gifts superb when they come in quilted housecoats, perky quilted berets with pouch bags to match, quilted vestees and ever so many other practical things.

Wagon Trail

The happy housewife who thrives on gadgets will welcome a set of three minute carts filled with gay flowers, candy, cigarettes or what have you. The wagons are rural in type—come in light or dark wood, blossoming with brightly painted flowers, and can serve as centerpiece groups many ways.

This Belongs To—

For the lady who's continually at a loss for a hanky because she's continually dropping them—the gift problem is solved! A few brilliantly colored cotton nifties with the words "This belong to (HER NAME)" embroidered right smack in the middle, are both practical and individual.

Dolls as Big As Little Girls Who Want Them, Featured Among the Lifelike Models Santa is Showing This Year

"Plassie" Doll is a beguiling little lady, so-called because of her durable plastic head. Her soft body is made of stuffed cloth, arms and legs of composition material. Her lovely sleeping eyes have real lashes that make her more realistic.

Little Miss Alicia, soft cuddly and winsome, can't be bought as you see here pictured, but she and her clothes can be made from patterns. Here's a Christmas gift to thrill any little girl.

So-O-Tall! That's Clarabelle! As tall as the proud youngster who will find her Christmas morn. Clarabelle comes dressed in a gayly colored smock and slack outfit that can be removed.

What Collection of 1942 dolls would be complete without a uniformed nurse? Well here is one that big girls as well as little girls will love for Christmas.

"Little Lady" doll is a celebrity with the very latest in hair-do's (of real hair)! She wears a lovely dancing dress, but can change her apparel with her little mother's whim, even to wearing gloves.

"Sweetie Pie" a docile, sweetfaced baby doll with adorable moving eyes. All dressed up, her skirt unbottons to show off a pair of play-time rompers. Movable arms and legs.

Wool-Top Duet: whimsical cloth doll called "Me" and her minlature replica called "Mimi." "Me" and "Mimi" provide double pleasure.

Three Cheers For The Red, White and Blue . . . and this patriotic trio of sailor, soldier and girl drum major who will parade right into a little girl's heart! The two fighting heroes have composition heads and arms and fabric bodies, while the majorette is entirely composition.

Rarin' To Go as anyone will be who receives these soldier and sailor dolls. They're loads of fun because of their flexibility—and can be put into all sorts of amusing positions.

American Girl for your American girl. This big-eyed model is all dressed in full patriotic regalia, red, white and blue. Her hair is made of yarn—she's fully jointed so she can stand or sit alone.

Spot-A-Plane Game is one the grown-ups will enjoy almost as much as the youngsters. Fighting planes are represented with accuracy and the game is government approved.

Tops In Tables

There's no more functional gift than that of a table—and the gift giver can do a three-fold turnover by presenting a nest of three tables that fit into one another in a space-saving way. They're excellent for the friend who specializes in supper parties or gin-rummy games.

Winter Pioneer

A huge circular wool kerchief with a drawstring to tie under her pert chin, will allow neither wind, rain nor snow to touch a hair of her pretty head. Deep fringe borders the kerchief as it does matching mitts.

Bring Your Own

Invitations to "at homes" will be carrying the above message, so somethings has to be done about the sugar problem. An attractive saddle leather case in any one of many colors, contains a small jar which holds, anywhere from a three to six- teaspoon "ration" capacity, and is appropriately named the "Sugar Toter."

Kitchen Quickies

A set of Pyrex glass that includes sauce pan and double boiler; deep casserole dish and pie plate will go well under mother's Christmas tree bough. It's a practical gift as well as patriotic one, for the use of glass allows more metal to go to war, and the glassware can come right to the table.

Catching Cosmetics

Kits containing all the feminine whims and fancies in beautifiers are ideal for the women in service. And what home-front woman won't also cheer cosmetics charmingly packaged for Christmas gifting?

Give a subscription to the Democrat or Capital this Christmas! A welcomed gift in any home.

Make a Christmas Gift for Someone

Hands that get busy quickly, making art needlework gifts, still have time to turn out original, attractive, useful things—inexpeisnvely—in time for Christmas.

And those who just "aren't handy" with knitting or crochet needle, embroidery floss, fabric and shears, can at least give the makings of many wearable and home-decorative things to more industrious friends.

With a new crop of bouncing babies to remember this Christmas, gingham bibs appliqued; tiny saques, gertrudes, bonnets and dresses embroidered in fine stitchery; cross stitch pictures, patchwork crib sets and hooked rugs are just a few useful suggestions.

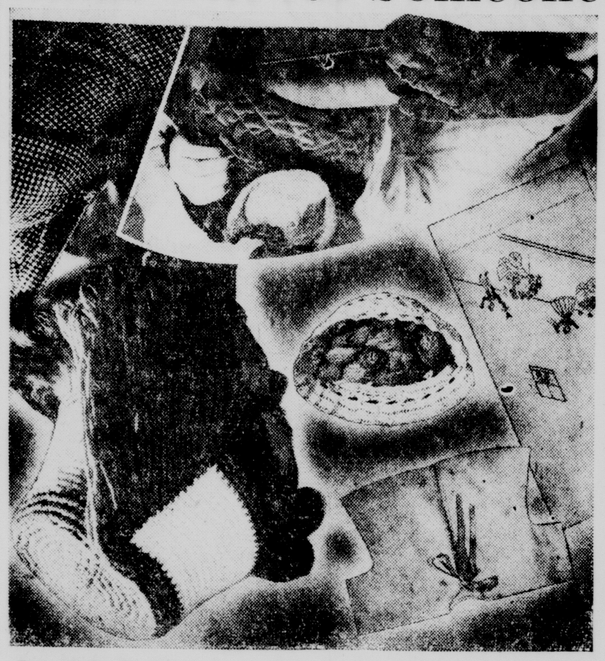
For older children, pinafores, smocks, stuffed dolls fully dressed, and cut caps made from easy-to- follow patterns are sure to earn hand claps of thanks. Tots of any age can use sweaters mittens, snow suits and helmets, knitted or crocheted, to stave off the cold.

The home gets its fair share of things to make—from speedily embroidered, humorously patterned guest towels and appliqued luncheon sets to crocheted and starched baskets to hold bon bons or flowers.

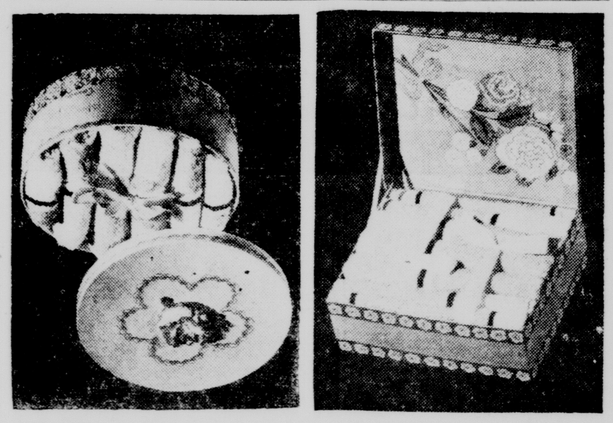
While the male of the species will be please as punch with lined, crocheted string gloves, knitted wool hose, muffler or sweater to help him laugh off lowered room temperature this winter.

The feminine angle points to quilted velvet berets, bags and mittens easily made according to pattern. Rug yarn, crocheted into jumbo necklace, belt and bracelet is really gay; and every girl wants a box full of crocheted headgear betasseled, pom pom, or pigtail trimmed.

Aside from saving money, and in many instances utilizing leftover fabrics and yarns, the gift that's made with the giver's own hands says in the most personal way, "I think enough of you to have devoted precious time to making this gift—which comes to say, "Merry Christmas!"



Just Made To Give! To crochet—the fez with tassel trim; or a bon bon dish. To embroider—the baby or Latin Quarter guest towels, and to sew, the quilted velvet bag and mittens.



Gift Sets of Towels for the hostess are available in attractive boxes like the "Princess" set to the left and the "Coquette" to the right. Each contains four pieces and each sells for less than $2
